The New Zealand National Bibliography (NZNB) contains catalogue records for the New Zealand imprint. It is produced monthly (12 issues per year). The National Library of New Zealand has responsibility for producing the Bibliography. Most of the material listed is received by the National Library of New Zealand under the Legal Deposit provisions of the National Library Act 1965, Section 30A, amended 1994. It includes New Zealand and Tokelau books, serials, newspapers, music, maps, videos, sound recordings, kits, and pictures. Items are included after they have been received at the National Library. The catalogue records produced meet international standards.

This document contains all the items that have been catalogued during the month of January 2019. The items are grouped under the main subject schedules of the Dewey Decimal Classification system. Within each subject grouping the items are arranged alphabetically by title.

Summary: “George Sweet has led a colourful life. These enjoyable and poignant stories will take you into the relationships and historical movements that formed his influential ideas and leadership roles. In an era of great change in New Zealand churches and spirituality, George preached love and justice, not dogma. In New Zealand’s growing psychotherapy sector George highlighted how societal factors effect happiness and depression. And how to embrace humanity as practitioners. From a caring extended-family home life, George started work as a Minister. He became a Prison Chaplain, and next a Marriage Guidance Director. Then spent 40 years in private practice as a counsellor and supervision practitioner, a national trainer and author. George has been part of many local and international progressive justice movements, and brings these experiences and insights to his writing. Central to his life is Beryl, his cherished wife of 59 years, and his three daughters and mokopuna”--Back cover.

Contents Founding and administration -- The students -- Student life -- A place to live: lodgings, colleges and flats -- The staff -- The humanities -- The sciences -- Commerce -- Health sciences -- Beyond Dunedin -- Support services -- Teaching -- Buildings -- Otago's place in the world -- Timeline.
Summary "The University of Otago has always taken pride in its status as New Zealand's first university. Starting a university in 1869 was a bold move: other regions observed Otago's action with a mixture of surprise, scepticism and envy. The venture paid off: from small beginnings, the university grew into a large institution with local, national and international significance. Like any organisation, the University of Otago has had its good times and its bad times. It has been at some periods and in some ways deeply conservative, and in other ways boldly entrepreneurial. A good history is a critical assessment rather than a public relations exercise, and Alison Clarke has consulted and researched widely to produce a forthright and fascinating account. While traditional institutional histories focus on the achievements of the most senior staff, she has been at pains to write an inclusive history painted on a much broader canvas. This history is arranged thematically, looking at the university's foundation and administration; the evolving student body; the staff; the changing academic structure and the development of research; the Christchurch and Wellington campuses and the university's presence in Auckland and Invercargill; key support services -- libraries, press, student health and counselling, disability services, Māori Centre and Pacific Islands Centre; the changing styles of teaching; the university's built environment; and finally, the university's place in the world -- its relationship with the city of Dunedin, its interaction with mana whenua and its importance to New Zealand and to the Pacific"-- Inside front flap.

Summary: "Thirty years ago Marilyn Waring's groundbreaking book Counting for Nothing was released. Waring explained, through meticulous economic analysis, how the success of the global economy rests on women's unpaid work. Counting for Nothing became a phenomenon: it was read and discussed around the world, and even made into a film. Today, many people hope that the shift to a wellbeing approach – moving beyond narrow economic indicators when assessing New Zealand's progress – will mean women's work is finally valued fairly. But what does Marilyn Waring make of it? This short book provides an essential assessment of wellbeing economics from a leading feminist scholar"--Back cover.

Summary: "Understanding Company Law, 4th edition, is a user-friendly resource written specifically to support non-law students studying the law of companies and other business organisations. Providing an excellent balance between theory, case law and practice, Understanding Company Law covers the essential concepts of company law, business organisations, financial markets, takeovers and corporate governance in a clear and straightforward manner. This new edition has been fully updated to take account of developments since the last edition was published in 2014, providing students with sufficient knowledge to develop a critical analysis and understanding of the topics. The law is presented in the context of critique, along with its uncertainties, ambiguities and problems, rather than as a mechanical description of the rules, making it easier to understand. The use of plain language ensures that the work is invaluable to students coming to the topic for the first time or who have English as a second language"--Publisher information.

Summary "Conventional wisdom holds that the Internet makes the world flat and reduces friction, erasing the impact of the physical world on our buying habits. But Wharton professor and marketing expert David R. Bell argues that the way we use the Internet is largely shaped by the physical world that we inhabit. Anyone can go online and buy a pair of pants--but the likelihood that we would do so depends to a significant degree on where we live. The presence of stores nearby, trendy and friendly neighbors, and local sales taxes play a large role in the decision-making process when it comes to buying online. Location Is (Still) Everything is for anyone who wants to understand the patterns underlying how and why we use the Internet to shop, sell, and search, including entrepreneurs, students, and investors. This book is not only about Internet trends and innovations, but also about fundamental human behavior and the role that the Internet plays in our daily lives"-- Provided by publisher.

Summary  "The New Zealand Wars were defining events in the nation's history. Filming the Colonial Past, an engaging new book from Annabel Cooper, tells a story of filmmakers' fascination with these conflicts over the past 90 years. From silent screen to smartphone, and from Pākehā adventurers to young Māori songwriters, filmmakers have made and remade the stories of this most troubling past. When Rudall Hayward went to Rotorua, Whakatāne and Te Awamutu to make his two versions of Rewi's Last Stand (1925, 1940) and The Te Kooti Trail (1927), he quickly found that the tangata whenua he relied on for making his films would help to shape the stories. By the time of the renewed interest in the New Zealand Wars in the 1970s and early 80s, thinking about race, nation and empire was undergoing a sea-change. The makers of television drama (including The Governor) and independent film (Geoff Murphy's Utu) set out actively to engage with Māori advisers and performers. In the late 1980s and 90s, screen industry deregulation brought a new set of challenges. Filming the Colonial Past shows how documentaries notably the New Zealand Wars series of 1998 and feature films Vincent Ward's River Queen and Rain of the Children negotiated these hurdles. Meanwhile, Māori working on Pākehā-led productions honed their skills. Today, the growth of Māori creative control, enabled by the diminishing cost of digital media and the expansion of platforms, signals a new era. From these sources come documentaries from Māori perspectives and new ways of exploring the past, from music videos to online histories. Each of these productions is a snapshot of a complex cultural moment"--Publisher information.

Summary Thirteen year old Dalia Leitner, newly arrived in Palestine, hero worships her Palestinian born cousin, Shimon Mabovitch. She dedicates herself to becoming a pioneer farmer, creating fertile land from the wilderness. On leaving school, however, Shimon persuades her to join an underground organisation dedicated to bringing into Palestine illegal immigrants who are escaping Nazi Germany. Instead of farming, she has to apply for a secretarial job in the Police HQ in Palestine’s major port. Things go drastically wrong and she returns to her original career choice, having quarrelled with Shimon. Two years into WW2, with Rommel poised to invade Palestine, the British and the Palestinian Jews unite in a joint effort to combat the Germans threatening to invade Palestine. Dalia joins one of the guerrilla units trained to sabotage a Nazi occupation. When the Germans are defeated at Al Alamain, however, the British dissolve the partnership and even confiscate their former partners’ personal weapons. Feeling betrayed, Dalia dedicates the next few years to achieving an independent Jewish state and finding a suitable life partner, not an easy task as she is still very much in love with Shimon.

Summary

"The Seventh Kingdom is surrounded by the Lands of Earth, Fire, Water and Wind. All but Earth have rulers. When a new enemy threatens all of the Lands, it is imperative to find the last ruler of Earth. Without this ruler, all factions could lose their lives and land to the dark evil that is threatening them. Morgayne, ruler in Land of Water and Ventus, ruler of Land of Wind, form a tentative yet skeptical relationship. Each must rid themselves of their preconceived notions to make a working relationship—everything depends on them. Their connection is deeper than either realizes and the uncertain link transforms into a close bond as they search for the last Land of Earth ruler. Will that tie survive the battles ahead? Will they allow or deny their feelings in this fantasy adventure that will have you urging them on to victory on all fronts"--Back cover.

Summary  Cook's Cook follows the 1768 journey of James Cook's H.M.S. Endeavour with his ship's cook, the one-handed John Thompson, as story teller. Through real recipes from the ship's galley, events on board and the places the ship traveled on its way to the Pacific, the book tells multiple stories. Here are stories of social class, hierarchy and race; stories of explorers and the people of the land; the story of one of the world's most famous explorers told through a fresh new lens. This beautiful book is full of information drawn from extensive research alongside evocative illustrations, released to coincide with the 250th anniversary of the Endeavour's journey"--Publisher information.

Title  A promising start : Dudley Sinclair and New Zealand’s first settlers / Hazel Holmes.
Author  Holmes, Hazel, 1952- author.
ISBN  0995100047 paperback  9780995100046 paperback
Physical Details  203 pages : illustrations ; 25 cm
Summary  "Dudley arrived as a member of the New Zealand Company on one of the first five ships bringing settlers to New Zealand. While other New Zealand Company men became immortalised in New Zealand history, Sinclair has been overlooked by historians. Holmes skilfully interweaves his story with the challenges endured by settlers during the early years of colonisation. As an entrepreneur, Dudley started the first brickmaking business in Wellington, a newspaper and steam mill in Auckland, was a shipowner and merchant, with copper mines on Waiheke and Kawau Islands, and was the first New Zealander to sail to China and Manila. Shortly before his death he had been challenged to a duel and horsewhipped. Someone was out to get him, he told the High Sheriff of Auckland. The next morning he was found dead with his throat cut. It was assumed he had committed suicide, but this could be the oldest cold case in New Zealand history"--Page 4 of cover.

Summary "Nanotech entrepreneur Ryan Trishler and retired Soviet general Alexander Volkov come from very different worlds, yet both have survived the toughest of upbringings. And now each man understands something of the nature of military conflict: one using technology to avoid senseless deaths on the battlefield, the other profiting from wartime brutality wherever it happens. When Trishler’s company trials a lifesaving hi tech antennae vest at the Yuma military testing ground in the Arizona desert, Volkov and his associates intervene, causing the violent deaths of innocent bystanders and setting off a chain of increasingly lethal confrontations. As the action moves from the United States to New Zealand to Canada, the deadly manoeuvring pulls in other players: both men’s families, law enforcement officers, senior politicians"--Back cover.

Summary "Based on a true story, Zac Sullivan, a violent offender, feared within maximum security prisons, finds a reason to change and gains an early release to the Far North, where his grandmother is dying and his grandfather is looking for a second chance. This is the story of a friendship between a man and his grandfather. It is a simple tale of the legacy of alcohol abuse across the generations and two men forming a bond that is ultimately tested by unexpected death. Set against the harsh world of the New Zealand prison system and the hardened cynicism and prejudice of a rural community tired of offending, Dangerous traces the emergence of something new. Chamberlain has created another page turner. He deals sensitively and refreshingly with the age old complexities of alcoholism and criminal offending, as well as the modern curse of cancer"--Back cover.

<td>Summary</td>
<td>&quot;He's haunted by war. She's searching for her twin. When a mysterious murder brings them together, can solving the case heal their broken hearts? California, 1868. Isabella Wilmington's dream of taking center stage feels empty without her long-lost twin brother cheering her on. When a bullet cuts through the crowd, she's convinced the murderous act is a warning shot against her search for her missing sibling. Determined to crack the case, she tags along with a rugged ex-soldier who'd rather keep her out of harm's way than put her on the frontlines of a dangerous investigation. Union vet Sebastian Russell longs to put the bloody memories of war far behind him. But his plan to mend his heart in sunny California goes up in gun smoke when his employer tasks him with solving a murder and guarding his feisty daughter from a second strike. Along the trail of clues, his feelings for the young actress grow stronger the closer they come to untangling the twisted truth within the shadow of dark memories. Before the next victim falls, can Isabella and Sebastian solve the mystery of their painful pasts or will the next bullet shatter their chance at a new future?&quot;--Back cover.</td>

Summary  "There is no evolution without sacrifice. The weak must be eliminated, for the strong to rise. Devastated by Chris's death, Liz has taken to the streets of San Francisco in a one-woman war against the government. With nothing left to lose, she'll do whatever it takes to have her revenge. But even a genetically-engineered girl with wings has her limits, and Liz is up against an army. It's only a matter of time before her recklessness demands a reckoning. The question is – who will pay the price? Meanwhile, the scourge of the Chead, once a trickle, has become a deluge. Led by the ancient Talisa, hordes of the superhuman creatures are sweeping across the countryside, decimating towns and reaping bloody slaughter. Only the young are spared – so they might become Chead themselves. With refugees flooding the cities of the Western Allied States, the tyrannical government might just be humanity's last hope..."--Back cover.

She's got a job, friends she cares about, a steady relationship, and she hasn't killed a single human. But something dark is on the horizon. A body appears in an alley, bringing up unsettling memories. A Necromancer warns of an approaching menace, and as more and more bodies begin to appear, repeating a very familiar pattern, Jennifer finds herself being framed for murder. Summary: 'Wednesday to come' (a play for 6 women and 2 men) shows the effect of the Great Depression on four generations of women from the same family. In 'Pass it on' (a play for 3 women and 3 men) the teenager Jeannie from 'Wednesday to come' is now a young woman in her 30s dealing with the 1951 Waterfront Lockout. The final play in the trilogy goes back in time to life in Victorian Dunedin: 'Jeannie once' (a play for 6 women and 3 men) looks at this world through the eyes of Jeannie's great-grandmother, Granna in 'Wednesday to come'. The themes of engagement in social issues and support for the underdog are common to all three plays.

Summary  After a family tragedy, Theodore De’Ath moves to Otago to live with his grandparents. He becomes fascinated by the Underworld, reading the Inferno, Paradise Lost and Faust. When war breaks out in Europe, unlike his peers, Theodore is not swept up with the fervour to enlist, but when conscription comes in 1916 he is obliged to join the New Zealand Division in France. Although expert on Hell in literature, it is not until confronted with the reality of war that he understands its true meaning. Soon he has to survive as a deserter, risking court martial and a death sentence. The Life of De’Ath draws on historical events: New Zealand military involvement at the Western front, anti-German sentiment during World War I, and the New Zealand soldiers who were shot for desertion between 1916 and 1918. At its heart, though, is the story of a young man going against the tide of social and family pressure, and struggling to express his feelings for Elizabeth Paterson before it's too late.

Summary  "Rock star Cooper Evans has it all; fame, fortune and a top model boyfriend. Life couldn’t be greater-until suddenly it’s not. When Cooper is betrayed and buries himself in work to the point of collapse, he is whisked away to Auckland, New Zealand to hide out from the press and recover. Charlie Samuels is content with his life; he has a small, successful construction company, great friends and a close family. All that's missing is someone to share it with. When his brother turns up out of the blue with the world’s hottest rock star in tow, he becomes a reluctant host. He soon finds that Cooper is so much more than his celebrity persona, but what would a star like Cooper want with a Kiwi guy like him? With Charlie, Cooper finds an inner-peace he didn’t know he was missing. Can he trust himself to love again or are their lives too different to combine?"--Back cover.

Summary "The setting is the years prior to the outbreak of World War I. It is a time when Germany is outwardly preparing for war but Britain continues to believe it is invincible and that no one would challenge her. A vast German spy network flourishes in England, often in plain view. The main character is Francis Norgate, an aspiring British diplomat who falls in disfavor with his superiors for defending a woman while stationed in Berlin. The resulting scandal causes Norgate to be recalled. On the way home, he meets a German gentleman, Selingman, who claims to be a crockery salesman. But, Selingman is not what he appears to be. Disillusioned by the English government, Norgate allows himself to be recruited by Selingman"--Publisher's website.

Summary "They were destined to meet, but can they harness their magical connection to reunify their family and save the kingdom? When Zoe’s grandmother, Eve, reveals that she has a twin sister with whom she communicates using a secret radio, Zoe is intrigued. Eve’s twin is Vee and in a moment of reflective melancholy, Eve reveals how she once travelled to the territory where Vee lives. Zoe retraces the path Eve describes and finds a secret travel network which she uses to journey to the distant territory. There, she meets Ruby who persuades her to take her home with her, but when the travel network is shut down, Ruby is trapped. With no way to get Ruby home, Zoe turns to Eve for help. Zoe knows Eve as her loveable, kindly grandmother, but her background in communications and experience running humanitarian missions make her and Zoe’s grandfather, Norman, formidable allies. They lead Ruby and Zoe on a fun-filled adventure where family secrets are revealed, fantastical friends are made, and a magical portal is discovered"--Back cover of print version.

Summary  "Jennifer Jones is trying to be a better person. It's not easy. She has a lot to make up for, considering that she's an immortal blood-sucker with a history of serial killing. But at least she probably can't get worse. And for the last seventy years, things have been going well. She's got a job, friends she cares about, a steady relationship, and she hasn't killed a single human. But something dark is on the horizon. A body appears in an alley, bringing up unsettling memories. A Necromancer warns of an approaching menace, and as more and more bodies begin to appear, repeating a very familiar pattern, Jennifer finds herself being framed for murder. Someone is out for revenge, and they're willing to kill to get it. You might be able to ignore your past, but you can't outrun it, and Jennifer's has just caught up to her"--Back cover.

Summary "Dr Ashwin Ghadavi, the newly imported GP, is trying hard to fit into Gabriel's Bay. His challenges include the immoveable force of his office manager, Mac, the ambiguities of the Kiwi idiom, and his unrequited attraction to Mac's daughter, Emma. Having returned home, Emma is determined to help her old friend, Devon, whether he wants it or not. She's also on a mission to right eco wrongs, and her targets include local farmer Vic Halsworth, who's already neck deep in the proverbial and, to make matters worse, seems to be having visions of moose. Add in a former jailbird, a Norwegian recluse, and a woman struggling to foster a child, and you have the usual endearing and down-to-earth mix that can only occur in Gabriel's"--Publisher information.
