The New Zealand National Bibliography (NZNB) contains catalogue records for the New Zealand imprint. It is produced monthly (12 issues per year). The National Library of New Zealand has responsibility for producing the Bibliography. Most of the material listed is received by the National Library of New Zealand under the Legal Deposit provisions of the National Library (Te Puna Mātauranga o Aotearoa) Act 2003. It contains New Zealand and Tokelau resources, both physical and digital, including books, serials, newspapers, maps, music, websites and podcasts. Items are included after they have been received at the National Library. The records are created in accordance with international cataloguing standards.

This document contains all the items that have been catalogued during the month of January 2020. The items are grouped by format and then separated into digital and physical. Within each format grouping the items are arranged alphabetically by title.

"Elaine Corren is virtually unknown until she leads a breakthrough at Avon Academy - creating a device called the Totem which launches a new era in scientific understanding. Working with an artificial intelligence called the Queen, the Totem brings scientists closer than ever to a Theory of Everything: a complete model of the universe, describing every possible phenomenon using a single equation. But when political upheaval threatens the project's survival, Elaine and the Queen devise a way to cheat the system - and short-circuit their development time by thousands of years. As they close in on the Theory of Everything, will Elaine pick up on the meaning behind the Queen’s strange questions…and on the danger of innocent change to the equipment? In the project's final hours, as disturbing things start to happen, will she heed an unbelievable warning from a strange source? Will she realize that she stands at a fork in time, where the cost of the knowledge she seeks will be decided - and that if she doesn’t piece together the clues before she steps onto the wrong path, she could end human civilization forever?"--Back of print version.

Summary: "Some words are hard to forgive. Some men are hard to control. Some mistakes can't be undone. In the near future, the Librarian algorithm imposes tailored censorship to protect citizens from ideas that could inflict trauma or incite crime. Political aide Serafina Walker has been in damage control for the secretary of literary safety ever since the actions of a rogue cop sparked a protest movement against state restrictions. She's used to dealing with the grey areas that her boss likes to play in, and the women he likes to play with. But her loyalty is tested when his games take a dark turn. The ends have always justified the means—until now"--Back of print version.

Title Does FDI promote entrepreneurial activities? : a meta-analysis / Sanghyun Hong, W. Robert Reed, Bifei Tian, Tingting Wu, Gen Chen.

Creator Hong, Sanghyun.

Format 1 online resource : illustrations

Summary "This study uses meta-analysis to analyze 557 estimates from 35 studies that estimate the effect of inward FDI on entrepreneurial activity. We address two questions: (i) Does FDI lead to greater entrepreneurial activity in host countries? (ii) What factors are responsible for the different estimates across studies? In addressing these questions, we make two methodological contributions. We extend the new Andrews-Kasy meta-analysis estimators (Andrews & Kasy, 2019) to allow for explanatory variables and we develop a nested framework of multiple meta-analysis models that allows for testing between models and model selection. We estimate that across all studies, the average estimated effect of FDI on entrepreneurship is positive but small in size, and statistically insignificant. In contrast, the average effect from studies that control for endogeneity is negative and statistically significant. Keywords: Meta-analysis, FDI, Entrepreneurship"--Page [ii].

Summary  "The Doomsday Tablet is an adventure thriller set primarily in present day United Kingdom and Europe. From the back cover: An ancient stone tablet is dredged up from the Mid-Atlantic. Generations later, archaeologist John Foxton begins to decipher the tablet's dark and mysterious omen. Daniel Reade, historian, discovers notes his great-grandfather Foxton had concealed before his murder during World War II. Foxton believed the tablet was more than a doomsday prophecy. Something far more dangerous. Archaeologist Elisa Mansfield is drawn into the mystery and soon unearths another tablet. The pair are thrown into a dangerous adventure involving an ancient civilisation destroyed by its own hand, a secret organisation borne during the Nazi era, and a cataclysmic weapon based on the lost technology. A fourteenth century map and lost manuscript seem to hold the key to the destroyed civilisation, but how is this possible? The stakes are high as Daniel and Elisa race to stay ahead of the organisation, and to understand what happened thousands of years earlier"--Publisher information.

Format 1 online resource
Summary "We examine the impact of the December 2012 NZX listing rule change that introduced compulsory disclosure about gender diversity on NZ boards. Although criticised for its timidity, the rate of growth in female-held directorships increased significantly after the introduction of the new rule, resulting in, by 2016, average female board representation being approximately double what it had been in 2012. However, we find no relationship between this response and company performance. Across six measures of operating and financial performance, firms that responded most strongly to the listing rule change fared, on average, no better or worse than those that stuck closer to the status quo. Keywords: Female directors; listing rules; firm performance"--Page [ii].

<td>Summary</td>
<td>Just when Maryanne Warren has made her choice—stay in the twelfth century with Robin Hood, she's dragged back to live in her own time. She gets to hug her little brother, and she'll never tire of long, hot showers, but the past haunts her. Every night, Maryanne is plagued by terrifying dreams of the people she left behind: Rob's friends with horrendous injuries; villages burnt and broken; Rob's legend in tatters. And worst of all, Rob dying with an arrow through his back. They're not just dreams, they're warnings. If she doesn't do something, Rob will be dead within the month. Saving him means returning to the past, and that has its own challenges. If her dreams are correct, Gisborne's alive and he wants her dead. Maryanne must decide if she can say goodbye to her family forever, knowing that if she doesn't find a way to stop Gisborne, Rob won't be the only one who doesn't make it to the end of the month.</td>

Summary: "A strange relic is found deep under the Antarctic ice, but before it can be analysed it is lost in a mysterious plane crash on a remote island. Anthropologist Peter Hennessy investigates the relic and its implications, while within days of the crash people on the island begin to die from an unknown illness. Biological samples are brought from the island to Australia for analysis, and a rogue diplomat seizes his opportunity. Police are soon investigating murders. As he explores further, Hennessy discovers medieval maps that depict Antarctica in impossible detail, and the mystery deepens. A former colleague of Hennessy, Dr. Nicole Palmer, is working on the seemingly unstoppable plague, and the pair soon find themselves in a race against time to prevent a deadly pandemic, and piece together how the relic is connected"--Publisher information.

Title Structural factor analysis of interest rate pass through in four large Euro Asia economies / Anindya Banerjee, Victor Bystrov, Paul Mizen.

Creator Banerjee, Anindya

Format 1 online resource : illustrations

Summary "In this paper we examine the influence of unconventional monetary policy at the ECB on mortgage and business lending rates offered by banks in the major euro area countries (Germany, France, Italy and Spain). Since there are many different policy measures that have been undertaken, we utilise a dynamic factor model based on the Bernanke Boivin and Eliasz (2005) approach, which allows examination of impulse responses to a policy rate conditioned by structurally identified latent factors. The distinct feature of this paper is that it explores the effects of all three phases of monetary policy to emphasize the transmission channels - through short-term rates, long-term yields and perceived risk - ultimately directed towards bank lending rates. Further analysis of unconventional monetary policy is provided through rolling window impulse responses and variance decompositions of the identified financial factors on lending rates to demonstrate the changing influence of different policy measures on lending rates. Keywords: monetary policy, dynamic factor models, interest rates, pass through"--Page 1.

Summary “Bloodstained land. Harrowing secrets. Can a wrongly accused rancher solve a brutal crime before he’s locked away forever? Rural Sacramento, 1870. Caleb Stewart can’t wait to be a family man. After battling natural disasters and legal challenges to secure his land claim, he’s finally free to court the French beauty next door. But he’s forced to push his feelings aside when his own hacienda becomes the scene of a suspicious double murder. Madeleine Laurent hopes a fresh start in America will help her forget painful memories. But even though her homicidal husband fled and vanished, she’s still legally bound to a man who’s likely dead. So she’s shocked when he reappears with a false name, stirring up trouble as the local lawyer’s hired muscle. Threatened into silence, she bites her tongue despite knowing that the truth of her husband’s identity could clear her kindly neighbour of blame. And as the trumped-up case grows, Caleb fears he’s running out of time to discover the real killer before he loses his ranch and his freedom”--Back of print version.

Except she had little to offer but a minor degree in cookery and household management, certainly not enough for a decent chef or housekeeper position. Then she saw an advert in the local newspaper. Wanted: Housekeeper/cook/nanny for the period of Christmas until the New Year. Could this be her savior for a short time, even if children didn’t exactly come under her remit. How hard could it be for a few weeks? Danny Reed, is desperate, taking out an ad to find someone who can provide a skill she hasn’t... cooking being a big one. Her aim: ensuring she keeps custody of her two nephews and niece. Helping her to provide evidence all is well for the grandparents visit Christmas day. There must be someone out there that would fit the bill for a few weeks. This is Christmas. Perhaps Santa reads the ad column too and pushes a little spirit of the season to that request."

Summary  "CEO Eli Lockwood is in over his head. Running his multi-million dollar empire? No problem. Relating to his rebellious little sister who has been entrusted to his care? That's a different story. And it's just his rotten luck that the only woman who doesn't seem to have trouble connecting with the kid is the one who wants to splash his life all over the newspapers. The entirely too tempting reporter is a complication he doesn't need. Too bad his heart-and his body-can't seem to get the message. Aria Simons is one big scoop away from the promotion of a lifetime. Eli and his new property development in the idyllic small town of Itirangi is exactly the story she needs. So when he offers her an exclusive in exchange for her help with his sister, she doesn't hesitate. Now all she'll have to do is learn how to ignore her overwhelming attraction to the cocky mogul. But when one night of passion leads to a very unexpected consequence, Aria and Eli will need to figure out if they can overcome all that stands between them and make room in their hearts for each other-plus one..."--Back cover.

Summary  “Elaine Corren is virtually unknown until she leads a breakthrough at Avon Academy - creating a device called the Totem which launches a new era in scientific understanding. Working with an artificial intelligence called the Queen, the Totem brings scientists closer than ever to a Theory of Everything: a complete model of the universe, describing every possible phenomenon using a single equation. But when political upheaval threatens the project's survival, Elaine and the Queen devise a way to cheat the system - and short-circuit their development time by thousands of years. As they close in on the Theory of Everything, will Elaine pick up on the meaning behind the Queen's strange questions…and on the danger of innocent change to the equipment? In the project’s final hours, as disturbing things start to happen, will she heed an unbelievable warning from a strange source? Will she realize that she stands at a fork in time, where the cost of the knowledge she seeks will be decided - and that if she doesn’t piece together the clues before she steps onto the wrong path, she could end human civilization forever?”--Back cover.

Title Catalogue and typifications of new taxa of vascular plants described by Finnish botanist Harald Lindberg (1871-1963) / Henry Väre (Botanical Museum, Finnish Museum of Natural History, University of Helsinki).
Creator Väre, Henry
ISBN 9781869778798 paperback
9781869778804 online edition
Format 98 pages; illustrations; 30 cm.
Series Phytotaxa; 47.
Summary "As a taxonomist Harald Lindberg mainly worked on North European and Mediterranean vascular plants. He published about 420 valid names of new taxa and in addition numerous invalid names or nomina nuda. In the present catalogue all the new names except those published under the apomictic genera Hieracium and Taraxacum, or names of mosses, are listed. Most of the North European new taxa are based on material collected by himself or others in Finland or adjacent Russia, rarely from Estonia or Sweden. The Mediterranean taxa are mostly based on the collections by his own hand from Croatia, Cyprus, Italy, Morocco, Spain or Tunisia, rarely from Bosnia and Herzegovina, Egypt, Hungary, Montenegro or Tunisia. Lindberg had no concept of type specimens and therefore all his taxa needed lectotypification. Most of the lectotypifications are performed in the present catalogue. Lindberg’s main collections are preserved in the Botanical Museum, Finnish Museum of Natural History, University of Helsinki, Finland (H). Numerous types are represented in the exsiccate series Plantae Finlandiae Exsiccate (nos. 1–2081) that Lindberg edited and distributed to other herbaria in 42 fascicules. His Mediterranean types specimens are frequently duplicated in the herbaria of Kew (K), Lund (LD) and/or Montpellier (MPU). Many of the names provided by Lindberg were validated by other authors, especially by I. Hiitonen in his Suomen Kasvio (1933). Many of the new taxa by Lindberg describe forms and varieties that are nowadays rarely recognized even though they are usually not based on obvious environmental modifications. In total, Lindberg described 321 vascular plant names Hieracium (34 taxa) and Taraxacum excluded (65). With these genera the total number is 420"--Page 3.

Creator: Bradbury, Rosalene
ISBN: 9780473370572 hardback
Publishing Details: [Darfield, New Zealand]: Sunesis Press, [2016]
Format: 171 pages ; 24 cm
Series: Historical theology (Series).
Summary: "Blaise Pascal (1623-1662) made brilliant contributions to seventeenth-century mathematics, physics, the literature of ideas and literature itself. His significance is firmly established. Nevertheless, he rewards ongoing critical engagement. In Christological Perspectives in Blaise Pascal Rosalene Bradbury addresses the foundation of Pascal's theological project. She argues that what motivated him overall, and what materially informed his non-scientific endeavour, was his devotion to the man-God Jesus le Christ. The significance of Jesus Christ for Pascal's project was thus not peripheral, as often assumed, but fundamental. Pascal was first a Christocentric theologian. Pascal declared that to base the knowledge and character of God in subjective human reasoning, rather than in divine revelation in Jesus Christ, relativises and destroys the concrete basis of the Christian religion. The antithesis equally applies. In Jesus Christ alone God is found. The heart, not the mind, knows this to be true. In this study Bradbury formally sets out Pascal's comprehensive, synthetic, incarnational and ontological Christology from above and shows how Pascal anticipates many themes in twentieth century orthodox Christologies. The shape of this system has not previously been fully demonstrated. Christological Perspectives in Blaise Pascal breaks new ground. No Pascalian scholar can afford to miss it."--Page [iii].

Summary  "The Doomsday Tablet is an adventure thriller set primarily in present day United Kingdom and Europe. From the back cover: An ancient stone tablet is dredged up from the Mid-Atlantic. Generations later, archaeologist John Foxton begins to decipher the tablet's dark and mysterious omen. Daniel Reade, historian, discovers notes his great-grandfather Foxton had concealed before his murder during World War II. Foxton believed the tablet was more than a doomsday prophecy. Something far more dangerous. Archaeologist Elisa Mansfield is drawn into the mystery and soon unearths another tablet. The pair are thrown into a dangerous adventure involving an ancient civilisation destroyed by its own hand, a secret organisation borne during the Nazi era, and a cataclysmic weapon based on the lost technology. A fourteenth century map and lost manuscript seem to hold the key to the destroyed civilisation, but how is this possible? The stakes are high as Daniel and Elisa race to stay ahead of the organisation, and to understand what happened thousands of years earlier"--Publisher information.

Summary "The earliest references to eavesdropping are found in law books. According to William Blackstone's Commentaries on the Laws of England (1769), 'eavesdroppers, or such as listen under walls or windows, or the eaves of a house, to hearken after discourse, and thereafter to frame slanderous and mischievous tales, are a common nuisance and presentable at the court-leet'. Today, however, eavesdropping is not only legal, it's ubiquitous - unavoidable. What was once a minor public-order offence has become one of the key political and legal problems of our time, as the Snowden revelations made clear. 'Eavesdropping' addresses the capture and control of our sonic world by state and corporate interests, alongside strategies of resistance. For editors James Parker (Melbourne Law School) and Joel Stern (Liquid..."
Architecture), eavesdropping isn't necessarily malicious. We cannot help but hear too much, more than we mean to. Eavesdropping is a condition of social life. And the question is not whether to eavesdrop, therefore, but how"--Front flap.

Format 364 pages : illustrations (some colour) ; 23 cm
Summary "When World War Two broke out, three theological students left their college in Auckland to the sound of bagpipes and volunteered to fight. Eddie Norman, aged 22 from Hawke’s Bay, was one of them. A natural leader, his first experience of action was at El Alamein in 1942 as a platoon commander, and during the Italian campaign he quickly rose to command 25 Battalion. Under Eddie, the battalion was responsible for the division’s success at Cassino, almost single-handedly smashed the German defensive line south of Arezzo and led the advance across the Senio to the Sillaro River. He was awarded the Military Cross, Distinguished Service Order and American Legion of Merit. Eddie’s regular letters home to his new wife, Margaret, described daily army life fighting in the heat of the desert and the wet winter campaign in Italy when the men were holed up in the ruins of Cassino and pursued the enemy through Tuscany to the Adriatic Coast. Eddie returned home to Margaret and his studies for the Anglican priesthood, eventually becoming Anglican Bishop of Wellington and, in 1984, a Knight Commander of the British Empire"--thecubapress.nz.

However, her world is soon turned upside down by a shocking discovery that makes her feel as though she only has one option: she has to run. In doing so, she is reminded that fleeing doesn't make her weak. In fact, she proves to herself that she is stronger than she ever imagined. Max is struggling to settle in the land that he now calls home. He turns to his new friend, Alistair, for support and is offered a job that opens his eyes to secrets that have been buried for centuries. When the safety of his new home is threatened, Max must work quickly to harness the information he has found so that he can protect those he loves. <td>Summary</td>
<td>&quot;When Matilda Green, bestselling author of The 'Lazy Girl's Guide to Living a Beautiful Life,' found herself facing some hard times, she knew she needed to do something to boost her happiness and her self-esteem. But what? So she set out on a journey of discovery, embracing gratitude, mindfulness and meditation techniques, and learning how to be kind to others and to herself. In The Feel Good Guide, Matilda pulls together everything she has learnt and shares her own experiences, in the hope that it will help others too. This practical resource, full of helpful tips and real talk, comes complete with an action plan in every chapter to get your own journey kick-started. As Matilda says, this isn't so much about changing who you are as it is about loving who you are. It's about celebrating yourself, embracing and being proud of the person you have grown to be, and finding the right tools to help you remember just how awesome you really are&quot;--Publisher's website.</td>

Summary: "The exhibition and this accompanying book are revelatory in bringing to light new research concerning Gottfried Lindauer's personal and professional life, as well as his remarkable painting methods. Conceived for 2015, the year when Pilsen holds centre stage as the European Capital of Culture, this exhibition directs long overdue attention to the Pilsen-born painter who was both an exemplary artist and an innovative pioneer in the field of inter-cultural research and exchange. Lindauer's practice spanned Europe and Aotearoa New Zealand, encompassed early training with the professor from the Academy of Fine Arts in Vienna in the Nazarene School, religious paintings in eastern Moravia, military commissions while in service, and studio paintings of the Burgher community in Pilsen (c. 1870) before emigrating across the globe to find his cultural voice in his portraits of Māori and genre paintings depicting Māori life. These works captured the imagination of the rapidly forming nation that was 19th-century New Zealand"--Foreword.

Title  Heroics & heartbreak : twelve months with the All Blacks / Jamie Wall.
Creator  Wall, Jamie.
ISBN  1988547326 9781988547329 paperback
Format  368 pages : illustrations ; 24 cm
Summary  The story of the All Blacks campaign for the 2019 Rugby World Cup, with insightful analysis and full commentary. What happened to the All Blacks at the 2019 Rugby World Cup? They were aiming for their third title in a row. A win would have capped a decade of dominance for the team and provided a fitting end to the careers of Steve Hansen and Kieran Read. But it turned out to be a much tougher challenge, and ended in crushing failure. Heroics & Heartbreak is Jamie Wall's story of the campaign, from someone who was there every step of the way. The campaign for the cup started with the end-of-year tour in October 2018. It was a hard slog, with the team clearly feeling the effects of a long season. Notably, Hansen and Read came under considerable scrutiny throughout. The signs were there that most of the other test-playing nations had gained some serious ground on the All Blacks in the past couple of seasons, seen in the results against England and Ireland on that tour. Jamie analyses the campaign and the All Blacks' games, trainings, press conferences and dramas throughout the World Cup as he follows the team in Japan. The climax was not the one that the All Blacks wanted, and signals a new era in world rugby. It may prove to be a defining moment for the game in New Zealand as well.

Josefa Stewart yearns to control her own destiny. Pregnant and mourning the murder of her betrothed, she's running out of time to find a suitable husband before she becomes a Californio nobility scandal. But that doesn't mean she'll settle for just any man who comes courting...Vaquero Santiago Valaquez knows his growing feelings for Josefa can never be requited. So when his estranged cousin makes a bid for her hand, he takes investigating the up-and-coming attorney's credentials to heart. But Santiago's probe uncovers disturbing secrets about his own family history that could destroy any prospect he ever had for love...Convinced his cousin's intentions are not fully honorable, Santiago vows to warn Josefa even though he'll sully his own good name. And while the truth forces her to finally notice the handsome man right under her nose, Josefa's pride may doom her to a lonely existence. Can the unlikely pair shatter boundaries and family traditions to embrace a joyful life together"--Back cover.

How the brain thinks / Dr Graham J Desborough.

Creator: Desborough, Graham J.
ISBN: 9780473467081 paperback
9780473467098 EPUB

Format: 277 pages ; 22 cm
Summary: "Calling on new research in neuroscience and a new interpretation of old ideas, this book tackles the age-old questions of how thinking, consciousness and emotion happen. We can be irrational and unpredictable but we are completely understandable, the author explains in this fascinating introduction to our complex inner world. At a fundamental level, he suggests, thinking happens when areas within the frontal cortex use the components of attention, emotion and memory to produce higher order functions such as consciousness and perception. These thought processes are similar in most of us. We are uniquely unpredictable simply because we all have a mix of different genes and experience. The value of story, why you should drive with your lights on, confusion around definitions of consciousness and our voice within, and new ways of thinking about feelings and emotion, are some of the topics on which this book offers fresh insights."--Publisher information.

Summary: "How easy is it for a man to simply disappear? When rural banker Richard Harper is reported missing, DSS John (Archie) Baldrick and DC Ben Travers are drawn into the tangled details of the man's life. Would Harper really have chosen to leave his seriously ill wife, and abandon his pregnant girlfriend? Or is there a real threat behind the abusive emails he'd been receiving from desperate clients in the wake of the Global Financial Crisis? On the home front, Archie's marriage is rocky and his two teenage daughters are giving him all sorts of trouble. The frail but beautiful Helena Harper and her magnificent house offer an oasis of calm as Archie struggles to discover who is responsible for her husband's disappearance. Has he really been abducted, tortured or killed? Or is Richard Harper himself behind everything that has happened? Archie and Travers ultimately face a race against time as the case descends into a bewildering morass of obsession, violence and murder"--Back cover.

9781988547169 hardback

Format  287 pages, 4 leaves of plates : colour illustrations, portraits ; 24 cm
Summary  "Michelle Duff delves into Ardern's beginnings in small-town New Zealand, discovering a nose-ringed teen fighting for equality and her own identity in a devout Mormon family. Duff tracks Ardern's political career from being dismissed as a 'show pony' to her compassion during one of New Zealand's biggest tragedies, the Christchurch mosque terror attack of 2019. In its aftermath, Ardern has become a global icon for her strength and decisiveness while uniting a country in shock and mourning. Ardern attracted international headlines for being the second world leader to give birth while in office. But why was having a baby so meaningful, and what does it say about the continued struggle for gender equality? Has Ardern really been a transcendent leader, and what enduring mark might she leave on the political landscape? This is an engrossing and powerful exploration of one of the most intriguing political stories of our time—telling us as much about one young woman's ascendancy as it does about the country that elected her"--Publisher description.

Summary Now in paperback, meet Charlie, Ruby, Oliver, Mason and Kaia - Kiwi kids representing a multicultural blend of culture and race that typifies this amazing country. They'll take you through a year in the life of New Zealand's kids, from celebrations, traditions and events, to our everyday way of life and the little things that make childhood so memorable. A Kiwi Year is a picture book bursting with national pride. It's a snapshot of who we are as New Zealanders, blending our modern-day culture and lifestyle with past traditions and native heritage. Its pages feature meandering text, dates and gorgeous illustrations showcasing our five Kiwi kids at play, at school, at home, and enjoying the sights and sites of our great nation. From the Bay of Islands to our hot springs and soaring mountains, vibrant cities and quaint country towns, this is our New Zealand childhood.

Creator: Turner, Nicola (Author of Living lightly).
ISBN: 9781775541509
Projected Publication Date: 2006
Format: pages cm
Summary: "The food we eat, the clothes we wear, the stuff we buy, the waste we create - how we consume is having a massive impact on our own wellbeing, and the wellbeing of the planet. How do you reduce your impact when you don’t want to compromise your lifestyle? How do you live lighter when you’re juggling the motherlode of life? How can you become more mindful of your consumption habits? In a previous career, Nicola Turner’s job was to understand shopper behaviour and convince us to buy more. After a personal journey to live more sustainably, she now uses this insight to help us consume less. With her unique ability to keep it real, Nicola shares how her family of four now lives with less stuff, less waste and less impact. It’s made life simpler, saved heaps of time and money and created a healthier, happier family. Filled with actionable ideas and practical hacks, Living Lightly is for everyday people who want to simplify their life and reduce their impact but feel they’re just too damn busy. It’s all about making simple changes that work for you – and not letting perfect get in the way of good."--Publisher information.

Summary  "Fred Barrett was raised on a King Country sheep farm, and spent time shepherding on both the east and west coasts of the North Island, before sheep farming on his own account in the King Country and Waikato. He has had additional farming interests in Australia and many parts of New Zealand and has also been involved in commercial and residential property development in the Waikato, Coromandel and Bay of Plenty. Fred has travelled widely, generally 'off the beaten track', both before marriage and with his wife Cec. He is involved in church leadership and other Christian endeavours, including speaking about his evidence-based faith. Fred and Cec live near Tirau, and have four adult children and seven grandchildren."--Back cover.

Summary Just when Maryanne Warren has made her choice—stay in the twelfth century with Robin Hood, she's dragged back to live in her own time. She gets to hug her little brother, and she'll never tire of long, hot showers, but the past haunts her. Every night, Maryanne is plagued by terrifying dreams of the people she left behind: Rob's friends with horrendous injuries; villages burnt and broken; Rob's legend in tatters. And worst of all, Rob dying with an arrow through his back. They're not just dreams, they're warnings. If she doesn't do something, Rob will be dead within the month. Saving him means returning to the past, and that has its own challenges. If her dreams are correct, Gisborne's alive and he wants her dead. Maryanne must decide if she can say goodbye to her family forever, knowing that if she doesn't find a way to stop Gisborne, Rob won't be the only one who doesn't make it to the end of the month.

Format 223 pages : illustrations (some colour), maps (some colour) ; 23 x 29 cm
Summary The Pacific Ocean covers very nearly a third of the surface of the globe and is inhabited by a diverse array of peoples and cultures bound by a common thread: their relationship with the sea. This visually stunning book highlights the importance of the Pacific, uncovering stories of beachcombers, piracy, surfing, castaways, mutineers, nuclear weapons tests, and kaiju monster movies. The rich history of this vast ocean is explored through an intriguing collection of objects, each one beautifully illustrated, from the earliest human engagement with the Pacific through to the modern day. Covering topics as diverse as mapping, whaling, trade, and the myriad vessels used to traverse the ocean, Pacific tells a broad history that extends to current political tensions and the environmental dangers that threaten the ocean's islands--Back cover.

Summary: "Every rugby fan in this country has a favourite province and every province has had its moments of glory. Whether one talks about the giants of provincial rugby like Auckland and Canterbury or the smaller unions like Buller and East Coast, memorable teams, matches and players abound. Every union and every player has contributed to the rich history of inter-provincial rugby. Every team reviewed in these pages mad a notable contribution to the rugby history of its union. It therefore follows automatically that the players did so as well, and many became heroes to the local audience. Some achieved a wider national profile - there are dozens whose careers are touched upon here who played more than 100 matches for their provinces - but just as many who only had one or two seasons in top rugby and happened to be part of an outstanding team. Whether a man played for a year or a decade is of small account, as without all their efforts the team would have been less than it was. Any provincial rugby fan should find something that brings memories to life, starts a few debates and recalls images of special days contained in these pages" -- Inside front cover.

ISBN  9780473510848 paperback
Projected Publication Date  2001
Format  pages cm
Summary  "A strange relic is found deep under the Antarctic ice, but before it can be analysed it is lost in a mysterious plane crash on a remote island. Anthropologist Peter Hennessy investigates the relic and its implications, while within days of the crash people on the island begin to die from an unknown illness. Biological samples are brought from the island to Australia for analysis, and a rogue diplomat seizes his opportunity. Police are soon investigating murders. As he explores further, Hennessy discovers medieval maps that depict Antarctica in impossible detail, and the mystery deepens. A former colleague of Hennessy, Dr. Nicole Palmer, is working on the seemingly unstoppable plague, and the pair soon find themselves in a race against time to prevent a deadly pandemic, and piece together how the relic is connected"--Publisher information.

Summary "Have you ever wondered where memories are stored in the human brain? What makes you unique and special? Why you have fears and phobias? Maybe thinking what on earth is happening to our climate, why there is so much world unrest in some countries yet many people are also uniting in protest to make world changes to improve humanity to bring in world peace! Have you ever thought 'why is it I feel like I have been here before' as you visit a distant land, blissfully meandering along a foreign street, and then feel like you have walked this way before, or know intimately a perfect stranger? Do you question, 'What is this experience we call life?' Yes, I have, and over the years in my search for the answers and truth, I think I have found it. Well, my answer that is! An analogy ... our minds or brain, are like a vast laptop computer plugged into a main computer. I will call this main computer, our Akashic records. Everything we do in our lives is recorded, but our minds cannot hold all the information from this present life or from many life times before. We forget so much yet it lies dormant, waiting for the Soul to press 'open windows or Fl, F5' or whatever we decide to open up a whole new world of memories before our inner eyes. Some choose to turn the program on or off and some question, 'Why? What would the purpose be if I did remember who I am?' Life certainly has taken on a whole new turn for me since the age of three years and it has become exciting, scary at times, but also empowering! This is the story of my many travels looking for enlightenment also about the assimilation (or illusion) of what we call life! May reading my journey of researching over more than seventeen years, open you up to a whole new meaning of what we call life"--Page xvii.

Title  Rescue: one New Zealander's crusade to save endangered animals / Michael Willis.
Creator  Willis, Michael (Michael Hedley).
ISBN  0995105340
9780995105348 paperback
Format  301 pages : illustrations ; 24 cm
Summary  Michael Willis was ten years old, already keeping rabbits, guinea pigs, frogs, possums and birds in his parents' garden and dreaming of running a zoo of his own. Then came a life-changing present: a copy of naturalist Gerald Durrell's The Bafut Beagles. Suddenly the idea of working with animals became more than just a fantasy. A lot of hard work and ingenuity later, the dream came true in 1974, when Michael opened Willowbank Wildlife Reserve, on the outskirts of Christchurch. An immensely popular and prize-winning tourist attraction, Willowbank is home to a rich collection of exotic and native animals, from kiwi and kea to otters, camels and monkeys. But that has been only part of the story. Over the years Michael has been increasingly driven to save and conserve rare livestock breeds, many of them far more endangered than some of their familiar native counterparts. He has travelled New Zealand, and the world, in his quest to save these often forgotten animals from extinction. Whether it is rediscovering the tasselled and beguiling kune kune pig, saving the goats of remote Arapawa Island, capturing wild pigs on the forbidding Auckland Islands, bringing back to life the lost wild cattle of Enderby Island or travelling to the Galapagos in search of threatened wild donkeys, his has been a life full of adventure, and full of the animals he loves. And the search continues. Just as he did in his delightful, best-selling first book, Some of My Best Friends are Animals, Michael Willis recounts his sometimes perilous and always riveting experiences with warmth, passion and infectiously laconic humour. Rescue will make you laugh and gasp, and think. For, as he reminds us, in an uncertain world, the saving of these animals could be the saving of us all.

Summary "Friday 13 March, 2015: Category 5 Tropical Cyclone Pam makes landfall with devastating consequences. Vanuatu is bruised but not broken. Reeling from the loss of livelihood and struggling to meet basic human needs, people start to reassemble their lives. Cathryn is an NGO worker from New Zealand who has a ruined home, a teenage son and a Ni-Vanuatu boyfriend she hasn't heard from since the phone lines went dead. Faia is a community organiser, a radio journalist and a survivor who fights for women to be heard. Together and apart they navigate their places in the complex cultural and social systems of Vanuatu, where tradition clashes with modern urban life. Sado is a novel about relationships - between friends and family, across cultures and communities, and also with the past. When a terrible accident occurs, all of these relationships are called into question"--Inside front cover.

ISBN  9781999007033 paperback
Publishing Details  Wellington, Aotearoa New Zealand : Steele Roberts Aotearoa, [2019]
Format  252 pages : illustrations ; 25 cm
Summary  "See, Judge, Act is the history of the New Zealand Catholic youth movements. Combining social analysis with spiritual training, these organisations showed members how to be fully Christian and yet fully lay people. They trained hundreds of activists to become leaders at every level of New Zealand society. Today, when the church is in crisis in many respects and struggling to find a path forward, the author raises the relevance of members’ experiences, and asks: -what is ‘spirituality’ for a lay person? -do lay people have a role in shaping church teaching? -what do the laity now need from their church? -and what does the church need from them? This history examines the 'See Judge Act' method and argues for its place in the modern church"--Back cover.

Format: 275 pages: colour illustrations, maps (some colour); 29 cm

Contents:

Summary: The very first maps were oral maps made by early Polynesian and Maori settlers which were waypoints, described as 'survey pegs of memory', lists of places in songs, chants, karakia and stories that showed direction. Hundreds of years later, the Dutch Abel Tasman sailed here and made the first attempt at a physical map; followed more than 100 years later by Cook, whose map was much more detailed as he circumnavigated the country. Once the detail of the coastline was filled in, more detailed maps of the interior were made by those in search of resources to exploit. A clever look at New Zealand history and also at the intriguing tradition of map making.

<td>Summary</td>
<td>&quot;it all started with a road trip in 1974 or three brothers exploring the South Island of New Zealand. When their house-truck breaks down near Havelock, the gateway to the Sounds, they think their journey is over. But really, it has just begun... Join Marty, Paul and Steve as they explore deeper and deeper into the enchanting labyrinth of the Sounds, gathering friends off the road, searching for a place to call home. The locals call them &quot;the hippies&quot; and cultures soon clash in this enclave of fishermen and farmers. Drug bust and betrayal, shipwreck and survival, are all part of the journey, as are the friendships made and lessons learnt. This account of 'commune' lifestyle in the 70's is candid and personal, hilarious and poignant. It is also a chronicle of love and marriage, heartache and loss, of spirituality and self-discovery. It spans most of a life-time and takes us away to distant places too, in its flow of insights and stories; but down deep, right at its heart, are the towering mountains and blue-green seas of the Sounds. And its people&quot;--Back cover.</td>

Title  Specimen : personal essays / Madison Hamill.

Creator  Hamill, Madison.

ISBN  9781776563012 paperback

Format  231 pages ; 21 cm

Contents  The new leadership -- Suspending belief -- Rules -- Speculative fiction -- The scare-cat -- Khayelitsha Takeaway -- Wo(und)man -- Bloodhounds -- Specimen -- Iceland -- The participant -- I will never hit on you -- Adventure time -- Brief Intervention -- Ethnography of a Ranfurly man -- The wilderness.

Summary  "A father rollerblading to church in his ministerial robes, a university student in a leotard sprinting through fog, a trespass notice from Pak’nSave, a beautiful unborn goat in a jar ... In scenarios ranging from the mundane to the surreal, Madison Hamill looks back at her younger selves with a sharp eye. Was she good or evil? Ignorant or enlightened? What parts of herself did she give up in order to forge ahead in school, church, work, and relationships, with a self that made sense to others?"--Inside back cover.

Title  Strong words 2019 : the best of the Landfall essay competition / selected by Emma Neale.
ISBN  1988531772
       9781988531779 paperback
Format  180 pages ; 22 cm
Summary  Judging her first Landfall Essay Competition in 2018, Landfall editor Emma Neale was seriously challenged. The overall high quality of the 90 submissions made it impossible to choose. After a nails-bitten-to-the-quick struggle, she optimistically submitted her 'shortlist' of 21 essays. The publisher had some strong words with her. Emma was told a shortlist needed to be shorter than 21. A lot shorter. There were no fingernails left to chew. She wasn't flexible enough to bite her toes. The only thing left to gnaw down was the too-long list. In the end she pared the list back to 10 but it seemed so wasteful not to be awarding many more prizes. The world needed to be able to read these damned fine essays. That's when this book was born ... Strong Words is a striking collection of essays that show what Virginia Woolf once described as the art that can at once 'sting us wide awake' and yet also 'fix us in a trance which is not sleep but rather an intensification of life'. It celebrates an extraordinary year in New Zealand writing.

Summary  "On the 9th of July 1986, the Homosexual Law Reform Bill was passed in New Zealand.
Despite merciless and divisive social debate, the stories of gay people, long submerged in mainstream heterosexual culture surfaced; and a more compassionate light was shone on the genuine crisis posed by the AIDS epidemic. The swimmers is the fictional story of a young runaway, Celie. From makeshift camps and squats, she writes her dead grandmother letters in which she describes the failure of her first tenuous gay relationship and her confusion of swimming and dying. Her story parallels that of her lost Uncle Jack who disappeared years earlier after being rejected by his mother for admitting a homosexual relationship. Uncle Jack returns home, dying of AIDS, at the crux of vociferous opposition to the Reform Bill. In what at times feels like a quirky comedy of errors, the story traces the disruption of familial relationships and their relentless, resilient recovery"--Back cover.

Creator  Myles, Sarah (Writer).
ISBN  1988547261 9781988547268 paperback
Format  359 pages : illustrations ; 24 cm
Summary  "When an Air New Zealand sightseeing plane crashed into the lower slopes of Mount Erebus in Antarctica in 1979, all 257 people on board lost their lives. The Erebus disaster sent shockwaves through our small country - it is said that 'everyone knew someone' involved. What's more, the aftermath wreaked its own trail of destruction, with the Royal Commission of Inquiry coining the oft-quoted phrase 'an orchestrated litany of lies' to describe the airline management's conduct. The surrounding media storm drowned out the stories of those at the heart of the tragedy: the families who lost someone, and the people who worked so hard to bring loved ones home. Their stories were forgotten - until now. Marking the fortieth anniversary of that horrific event, this is the first book on the topic written by a family member. In Towards the Mountain, Sarah Myles uses extensive research and interviews to weave together the stories of her grandfather, his fellow adventurers and the first responders. This is the story of what happened and its enduring impact on those most affected. What emerges is a testament to the possibility of hope."--Publishers website.

<td>Summary</td>
<td>&quot;Alice Parker's zest for life is contagious. When she's not working in her father's bar in London, she's out partying with her friends. Some might say she is having too much fun. Her boyfriend, Jason Middleton, is a health and fitness trainer. He's concerned about her drinking and gives her a voucher for a revolutionary new treatment to cure addiction. Alice is reluctant to try it, but when she wakes with yet another hangover, accompanied by a pain in her kidneys, she worries about her health. Then the threatening text messages arrive. Who has it in for her? And why? Her father, Damion, sends her to The Community, a safe place isolated from the rest of the world. Some questions about her life are finally answered, but that is only the beginning. Life, as she knows it, has been one big lie&quot;--Back cover.</td>

<td>Summary</td>
<td>&quot;Bloodstained land. Harrowing secrets. Can a wrongly accused rancher solve a brutal crime before he's locked away forever? Rural Sacramento, 1870. Caleb Stewart can't wait to be a family man. After battling natural disasters and legal challenges to secure his land claim, he's finally free to court the French beauty next door. But he's forced to push his feelings aside when his own hacienda becomes the scene of a suspicious double murder. Madeleine Laurent hopes a fresh start in America will help her forget painful memories. But even though her homicidal husband fled and vanished, she's still legally bound to a man who's likely dead. So she's shocked when he reappears with a false name, stirring up trouble as the local lawyer's hired muscle. Threatened into silence, she bites her tongue despite knowing that the truth of her husband's identity could clear her kindly neighbour of blame. And as the trumped-up case grows, Caleb fears he's running out of time to discover the real killer before he loses his ranch and his freedom&quot;--Back cover.</td>

Summary: "The world is going crazy. In a not too distant future, climate change is slowly drowning coastal areas, Artificial Intelligence is running almost everything, and social media continues to rule people's lives. In a South Pacific nation, an affluent family lose their beach-front home to storm and high seas. Waterfront insurance has long been unavailable and, with their prime asset now gone, Brian, Stella and their two teenage kids must move from the capital to Byte, a small, southern, rain-swept city in the grip of a computerised bureaucracy and a gang of religious vigilantes. When Brian falls foul of the authorities, Stella, Mandy and Luke must fend for themselves. Stella's only option seems to be an offer of help from the least likely quarter - but with what consequences?"--Back cover.

Would she be gone / Melanie Harding-Shaw.

When the state steals your words, you still have your voice. When they steal your family, will you have the strength to use it? In the near future, the Librarian algorithm imposes tailored censorship to protect citizens from ideas that could inflict trauma or incite crime. Detective Virginia Wright is going undercover in the criminal world of spoken poetry to hunt down suppliers of illegal open-access e-readers. She has buried herself in her work ever since her mother died. But when her remaining family are arrested for literary solicitation, her world starts to crumble. And when the man she is supposed to arrest gives her the most precious gift of all, her moral compass is sent spinning--Back cover.
