The New Zealand National Bibliography (NZNB) contains catalogue records for the New Zealand imprint. It is produced monthly (12 issues per year). The National Library of New Zealand has responsibility for producing the Bibliography. Most of the material listed is received by the National Library of New Zealand under the Legal Deposit provisions of the National Library Act 1965, Section 30A, amended 1994. It includes New Zealand and Tokelau books, serials, newspapers, music, maps, videos, sound recordings, kits, and pictures. Items are included after they have been received at the National Library. The catalogue records produced meet international standards.

This document contains all the items that have been catalogued during the month of June 2019. The items are grouped under the main subject schedules of the Dewey Decimal Classification system. Within each subject grouping the items are arranged alphabetically by title.

Author Cashley, Sandra, author.
ISBN 9780473471972
Physical Details 279 pages ; 23 cm
Summary "For years, through the online 'ACCforum', many Kiwis have shared their own nightmare stories of working with ACC employees. Sandra Crashley researched her topic after being mistreated by ACC who were in collaboration with her GP practice! She used her accident claim experiences to demonstrate how numerous ACC employees have wasted tax payers' money in significant amounts. This book also describes the abuse that many New Zealanders have suffered because they made an ACC claim during the years of John Key's National government"--Back cover.

Physical Details 488 pages : illustrations ; 30 cm
Summary "28 Māori Battalion was a front line infantry unit that was part of 2nd New Zealand Division that fought in the Second World War. It was completely voluntary and at any one time 700-750 men were in the Battalion, organised across four rifle companies, A, B, C and D, and a Headquarters company. The four rifle companies were organised along tribal lines and this book looks at the war from the perspective of B company, which drew its members mainly from the Te Arawa and Mataatua confederations of tribes, but from Tauranga Moana, Coromandel, Waikato and King Country. As well as telling the stories of the significant campaigns that 28 (Māori) Battalion were involved with, in Greece and Crete, North Africa and Italy"--Just jacket.

Title True to Ireland: Éire's 'conscientious objectors' in New Zealand in World War II / Peter Burke.

Author Burke, Peter, 1946- author.

Physical Details 270 pages: illustrations (some colour); 24 cm.

Summary "Irish men and women came to New Zealand in the 1930s to seek a better life, many carrying bitter memories of atrocities committed by the British. With WWII came the threat of conscription, but many Irish refused to betray their neutral homeland to fight for New Zealand and, by default, Britain. Peter Burke's father was one of the Sons of Éire - men who risked imprisonment and deportation by standing up to the New Zealand Government and appealing the draft in a dramatic case that paved the way for others"--Back cover.

Contents: 04. Reforming social security : Kia piki ake te mana tāngata (Includes Table 1: Six values at the heart of Kia Piki Ake Te Mana Tangata Framework) -- 05. Delivering for Māori (pages 73-77)
Summary: The New Zealand Government established this Welfare Expert Advisory Group to undertake a broad-ranging review of the welfare system and advise the Government on how to better meet the needs of New Zealanders now and in the future. This report presents the Welfare Expert Advisory Group's findings and recommendations. It finds the current system is no longer fit for purpose and needs fundamental change - to move beyond a 'safety net to 'whakamana tangata' - restoring dignity to people so they can participate meaningfully with their families and communities. Sections include: Listening to New Zealanders: what we heard; Reforming social security; Delivering for Maori; Restoring trust with people using the welfare system; Achieving security requires adequate income; Alleviating the housing conundrum; Improving access to employment and labour market support; Creating a fairer deal for people with health conditions or disabilities and carers; Strengthening community organisations and volunteering; Improving outcomes requires a cross-government response; and Treasury modelling of tax and welfare changes. The report is supported by separately published evidence briefs and background papers.

Summary "McGraw-Hill Education IELTS, Second Edition is the ideal way to sharpen skills and prepare for this high-stakes English proficiency test, which is required for admission or hiring by schools, multinational corporations, and government agencies worldwide. Whether you're preparing for the Academic or General Training version of the IELTS, you'll benefit from the intensive practice you get from tests prepared by a veteran IELTS teacher and grader. The International English Language Testing System (IELTS) is a paper-based test consisting of four modules: Listening, Reading, Writing, and Speaking. Question types include multiple choice, sentence completion, short answer, classification, matching, labeling, and diagram/chart interpretation. This guide provides intensive practice with tests just like the real IELTS in format, topic coverage, and degree of difficulty. Tips on English spelling and grammar, and exercises throughout the book, prepare you for all sections of the test. Downloadable audio tracks model examples of strong responses to the speaking and listening sections." --Publisher description.

Dyslexia-escaping the forest : a child’s view lost in the trees / Rhona Macdonald.

Macdonald, Rhona, author.

v, 275 pages ; 22 cm

"Rhona grows up with her collected labels of being lazy and immature. She spends her unhappy days, re-doing work, dreading reading sessions, dreaming of escaping it all. She is lost, she does not understand why her efforts results in poor marks, cementing her place in the retard class. She falls further behind in Primary School with a bully of a teacher and her self-esteem is rock bottom. Rhona skilfully develops ingenious strategies and is forever adapting to accommodate the latest challenge. Survival is a daily task. A broken limb and a change of school provides relief. Rhona's Secondary School English teacher looks beyond the trees of the pre-existing labels and sees the complete view. She sees a bright child with dyslexia and gently shows Rhona a way out of the forest. Rhona still battles with trust and luck and needs all her resourcefulness and determination, but the path looks like it could lead out and so Rhona's life begins to have hope and a possible future"--Back cover.

Summary
"Applies to chain saws for cutting wood and designed for use by one person. This standard does not cover chain saws designed for use in conjunction with a guide-plate and riving knife or in any other way such as with a support or as a stationary or transportable machine. This standard does not apply to chain saws for tree service as defined in ISO 11681-2; or pole-mounted pruners. The chain saws covered by this standard are designed only to be operated with the right hand on the rear handle and the left hand on the front handle. This standard will supersede AS/NZS 60745.2.13:2010 on 30 November 2021. Identical to, and includes the text of, IEC 62841-4-1 Ed 1 (2017)."--standards.govt.nz.

Summary
"Applies to transportable drain cleaners. The rated voltage is not more than 250 V for single-phase a.c. or d.c. tools, and 480 V for three-phase a.c. tools. The rated input is not more than 3 700 W. The limits for the applicability of this standard for battery tools are given in Annex K. This standard deals with the hazards presented by tools which are encountered by all persons in the normal use and reasonably foreseeable misuse of the tools. Hand-held electric tools, which can be mounted on a support or working stand for use as fixed tools without any alteration of the tool itself, are within the scope of this standard and such combination of a hand-held tool and a support is considered to be a transportable tool and thus covered by the relevant Part 3. Drain cleaners are also known as pipe cleaners. This standard does not apply to hand-held drain cleaners, high pressure cleaners for cleaning drains, or machines that use a solid rod to clean drains. Identical to, and includes the text of, IEC 62841-3-14 Ed 1, IDT (2017)." - standards.govt.nz

Explosive atmospheres. Part 0, Equipment. General requirements.

Specifies the general requirements for construction, testing and marking of Ex Equipment and Ex Components intended for use in explosive atmospheres. The standard atmospheric conditions (relating to the explosion characteristics of the atmosphere) under which it may be assumed that Ex Equipment can be operated are: (a) Temperature: –20 °C to +60 °C; (b) Pressure: 80 kPa (0.8 bar) to 110 kPa (1.1 bar); and (c) Air with normal oxygen content: Typically 21% v/v. This part of AS/NZS IEC 60079 and other standards supplementing this standard specify additional test requirements for Ex Equipment operating outside the standard temperature range, but further additional consideration and additional testing may be required for Ex Equipment operating outside the standard atmospheric pressure range and standard oxygen content. Such additional testing may be particularly relevant with respect to types of protection that depend on quenching of a flame, such as “flameproof enclosures “d” (AS/NZS IEC 60079.1) or limitation of energy, “intrinsic safety “i” (AS/NZS IEC 60079.11). Title: Passive house for New Zealand : the warm, healthy homes we need / Jason Quinn.

Author: Quinn, Jason (Building scientist), author.

ISBN: 9780473469030 paperback

Physical Details: 98 pages : colour illustrations ; 21 cm

Summary: "Our homes should be a safe haven. In this succinct, fiercely argued book, building scientist and Passive House designer Jason Quinn reminds us of all the ways New Zealand housing fails. He takes aim at the Building Code and the high cost of building average (or worse) homes. Most of all, this is a book concerned with how to do better. It makes an impassioned argument for much wider use in New Zealand of the Passive House building performance standard. Jason Quinn demolishes myths about Passive House concepts and demonstrates its relevance for New Zealand conditions. The theory is backed up with concrete examples of New Zealand’s first 24 Certified Passive Houses and concludes with the more diverse projects - apartment buildings, offices and tourist accommodation - that are being planned. Of interest to architects and architectural designers - and those among their clients who are interested in how their new home will work and feel, not just how it will look - Passive House for New Zealand is also an important read for anyone involved in the building industry and in making policy on health and housing"--Back cover.

<td>&quot;He kino ra te noho a te tamariki. Ko Greg Heffley tetahi e mohio pai ana ki tenei. Being a kid can really stink. And no one knows this better than Greg Heffley. In this brilliant translation of Jeff Kinney's bestselling Diary of a Wimpy Kid by Heni Jacob, twelve year old hero Geoff Heffley is the Tama Hungoingoi (Wimpy Kid) of the title. He tells us all about his life in the original language of Aotearoa New Zealand, te reo Maori. A great book in any language, Te Rataka a Tama Hungoingoi is packed with laughter, gags, disasters, daydreams and plenty to keep young readers hooked until the very end&quot;--Publisher information.</td>

Summary "Elin Prescot's dream to be a top fashion designer is finally within her reach - then Marissa Banks enters her life. Snared by her first taste of passion, Elin is consumed by desire for more. Now, instead of pursuing her dreams, she chases the addiction that is Marissa. Her life spirals out of control until she meets Doctor Aimee Sullivan, who understands all too well what Elin is going through. Can Elin let Aimee into her heart? Or will her addiction keep her enthralled with Marissa? This story explores first love, intense passion, manipulation of emotions, and the gentleness of real love and true romance"--Back of the book.

Summary "Priory McAllister has fought off boardroom sharks, handled high-pressure jobs, and thought she'd seen it all. Ready to live the suburban life she found her dream home and can't wait to move in. Unknown to Priory, the house is inhabited by two ghosts, Rhee and a mischievous Dylan who call Priory's new house their home and have since 1935. They have no intention of leaving after all, she couldn't be harder to get rid of than the others who tried to encroach on their home. Jacey Ryder, Priory's long-suffering secretary has agreed to help her boss move... the things you do for your crush! Now, she gets to play referee between her boss and a bossy ghost, as each side try to lay claim to the house. What can she do when an unstoppable force, (her boss) meets an immovable object, (the ghost) besides hope for a peaceful solution? They are like two peas in a pod - two angry, stubborn peas in a pod"--Back cover.

Summary  "William PATTERSON and Catherine LOWE married in Dunfermline in Fifeshire, Scotland then immigrated to Victoria Australia in 1852. There they ran a general merchant business in Essendon north of Melbourne and had two sons and a daughter. Attracted by the discovery of gold in Otago, New Zealand, they immigrated to Gabriel's Gully in 1862. They next moved to Wallacetown near Invercargill where William set up business selling chaff to waggoners. About 1875 they bought 200 acres of unimproved land at nearby Ryal Bush on which they had a six-roomed house built. The farm they developed produced oats and wheat and ran horses and sheep. Both sons successfully entered ploughing matches, Robert gaining the title of Southland Champion Ploughman in 1891. Being an accomplished horseman, Robert was also an enthusiastic member of the Southland Hussars and won the Birchwood Steeple Chase in 1884. Younger son, David, farmed at Isla Bank, while daughter Catherine married William ANDREWS and farmed at Heddon Bush. Catherine died in 1894 and William in 1897. The three PATTERSON children produced 17 grandchildren, three of whom died in childhood. Three grandsons served in World War 1"--Back cover.

Summary

"Endurance was an inherent part of the First World War. The chapters in this collection explore the concept in New Zealand and Australia. Researchers from a range of backgrounds and disciplines address what it meant for New Zealanders and Australians to endure the First World War, and how the war endured through the Twentieth Century. Soldiers and civilians alike endured hardship, discomfort, fears and anxieties during the war. Officials and organisations faced unprecedented demands on their time and resources, while Māori, Australian Aborigines, Anglo-Indian New Zealanders and children sought their own ways to contribute and be acknowledged. Family-members in Australia and New Zealand endured uncertainty about their loved ones' fates on distant shores. Once the war ended, different forms of endurance emerged as responses, memories, myths and memorials quickly took shape and influenced the ways in which New Zealanders and Australians understood the conflict. The collection is divided into the themes of Institutional Endurance, Home Front Endurance, Battlefield Endurance, Race and Endurance, and Memorials." --Publisher description.

Summary: "The story of one historian, and a country, awakening to New Zealand's past. 'Men no longer whisper "Revolution", they shout it; and they no longer carry banners, but throw bricks' – Letter home from Harvard, 1970. Jock Phillips grew up in post-war Christchurch where history meant Ancient Greece and home was England. Over the last 50 years – through the Māori renaissance, the women's movement, the rediscovery of ANZAC and more – Phillips has lived through a revolution in New Zealanders’ understanding of their identity. And from A Man's Country to Te Ara, in popular writing, exhibitions, television and the internet, he played a key role in instigating that revolution. Making History tells the story of how Jock Phillips and other New Zealanders discovered this country's past. In this memoir, Phillips turns his deep historical skills on himself. How did the son of Anglophile parents, educated among the sons of Canterbury sheep farmers at Christ’s College, work out that the history of this country might have real value? From Harvard, Black Power and sexual politics in America, to challenging male culture in New Zealand in A Man’s Country, to engaging with Māori in Te Papa and Te Ara, Phillips revolted against his background and became a pioneering public historian, using new ways to communicate history to a broad audience"--Publisher information.

Summary  "John William WATSON, tailor, and Ellen Elizabeth PEARCH married in Stockton-On-Tees, England in 1875. They lived with John’s mother in Middlesbrough where their first son was born in 1879. That year John left his family and immigrated to New Zealand where he established himself as a tailor in Invercargill. In 1881, John’s mother, his wife Ellen and his two-year-old son joined him. John operated his business from the family home, which for two decades was close to the Invercargill jetty so he could sail his yachts. From 1882 until 1889 John and Ellen had a daughter and four more sons, one of whom died in infancy. John managed to support his family by his tailoring business during the poor economic conditions of the Long Depression. As the economy improved John opened a tailoring shop in the town centre that employed about nine workers. However, a disastrous fire in 1903 nearly ruined the enterprise. Consequently John underpaid his employees but was discovered and charged under the Factories Act 1891. In the face of competition from mass-produced garments he kept the business afloat until he retired about 1920. John died in 1923 and Ellen in 1950. One of their sons served in World War 1, was wounded, married in England and never returned. John and Ellen’s three remaining sons married and produced 20 grandchildren who survived to adulthood. Five grandsons served in World War 2"--Publisher information.

Title: Une bonne affaire : striking a bargain with France / Jennifer Maxwell.
Author: Maxwell, Jennifer, 1948- author.
©2019
Physical Details: 128 pages : colour illustrations ; 24 cm
Summary: When novelist and artist Jennifer Maxwell first travelled in search of the City of Light and La France profonde, she discovered something else entirely. Her appalling ignorance. In France she was une idiote. Twenty-five years later she is still an idiot but a very well-informed one, particularly in her chosen field, the untranslatable and quintessentially French national pastime called "brocante."

Physical Details: 44 pages : colour illustrations ; 22 x 30 cm
Summary: "... provides an overview of the five-year commemoration programme, and illustrates how it met its original objectives using a selection of centenary projects. The report also shares a summary of the key findings from research conducted by Colmar Brunton on behalf of the WW100 Programme Office. Comprising three nationwide surveys completed in 2012, 2016 and 2018, the results make it possible to identify shifts in New Zealanders’ knowledge of, and attitudes towards, the First World War and the centenary programme itself, as well as measure overall engagement"--Unnumbered page 3.

Summary  "This story begins in Scotland and continues in New Zealand. It is the particular story of two families, the Melvilles, who were born and lived in Scotland and the Andersons who were born and lived in Australia and Scotland. It tells of something of life in Scotland and Australia and continues with a brief account of some of the family migrating from Scotland to New Zealand in the early years of the 20th century. Melville is a well-known name in Scotland. Their early ancestors came from France, settled in Fife and spread out from there. The Melvilles of this story began their lives in Dunbar, East Lothian in southern Scotland. Ancestors include Lunams, Andersons, Doughtys and Melvilles, amongst others. Marriages were made and families raised in Australia, Scotland and New Zealand"--Page 6.

Author  Trussell, Denys, 1946- author.

ISBN  9780908595891

Projected Publication Date  1908

Physical Details  pages cm

Summary  "This is predominantly a book of poems, most of which have already been published in New Zealand in a series of volumes and literary magazines between 1973-2018. About half the poetry consists of shorter poems on a variety of subjects, particularly the New Zealand landscape. The other half are long poems, some of great size, that concern historical and cultural narratives of New Zealand, Oceania, with some reference in one case to Europe and America. The prose takes up about 50 pages of an 800-page volume. This consists of essays on poetics directly related to the poetry and a large glossary that covers the social, cultural and historical material, and translates terms in Maori and other languages that occur, mainly in the longer poems. The essays also have previously been published in New Zealand"--Publisher information.

<td>Summary</td>
<td>&quot;When Katy's husband walks out on her with his mistress all her hopes and dreams are shattered. Then her Aunt Connie dies leaving her a run down house that she instantly falls in love with and it seems like she finally has the chance to make a fresh start. If only the builder she has been forced to work with wasn't trying to snake it out from under her. Rick thinks he'll finally be able to get back his family homestead after the passing of local recluse and current owner of the now run down house Connie Pride. Then he meets Connie's niece Katy and all hopes of ever having the home returned are destroyed. It's clear that she's as in love with the old house as he is and has absolutely no intention of selling it back to him. Can Katy turn this old broken house into something beautiful with the help of her surly builder, or will working with Rick end in not only the loss of the house she's fallen in love with but also a broken heart&quot;--Back cover.</td>

Summary  "A lady never reveals the true extent of her decay. Hannah Miles lives a quiet existence helping her parents conduct research into a most terrible affliction—until a gruesome murder during her best friend’s engagement party pulls her from the shadows. With her specialist knowledge and demur disposition, Hannah is requested to aid the investigation. Except Hannah discovers her role is to apologise in the wake of the rude and disgraced man tasked with finding the murderer. The obnoxious Viscount Wycliff thinks to employ Hannah purely as a front to satisfy Whitehall, but she'll have none of that. The two must work together to find the murderer before the season is ruined. But the viscount is about to meet his greatest challenge, and it's not a member of the ton with a hankering for brains."--Back cover.

Summary  "A wave of near drownings along the Welsh coast can only mean one thing: the morgenau, Welsh sirens, have returned to the Llŷn Peninsula. Myrhydion seizes the chance to prove himself as future king. Instead, he falls under the spell of a cunning underwater sorcerer. Myrhydion fights to free himself, while keeping up the fiction of his human identity. As he loses more and more of his power to the sorcerer, Myrhydion risks more than the crown. He could lose the life he's created on land with Olly. As Myrhydion and Olly struggle to protect the people of the Llŷn, Myrhydion faces an impossible choice. Surrender the magical powers that are his only defense against the machinations of the former king, his evil grandfather, or risk the lives of everyone he cares about. Rapidly running out of magic, options and friends, Myrhydion knows that only a king can win this battle - and Myrhydion is prince of nothing"--Back cover.

<td>&quot;A Kiwi treasure and a breathtaking pictorial journal, Passion revolves around three themes: Living - A superb insight into life away from the hustle and bustle of cities, noise, and traffic; Feasting - Allows the reader to enjoy Marion's favourite dishes using local natural foods caught or grown on her doorstep, and to learn how to use some unusual ingredients; Writing - Marion's narrative, interspersed with her wonderful anecdotes, short stories and poems, draws the reader into her remarkable life. Marion's inspiration often comes from the natural elements surrounding her, and it is that which led to this book being written. It is presented in seven parts: From the Past, From the Land, the Sea, the Sky, the Mountains, the Garden and finally, the Heart - a union of 'living, feasting and writing'&quot;--Publisher information.</td>

But Yuuki Takahashi is already dealing with a lot of stress in his life when Timothy, the judge, approaches him. After an incident rendered him with PTSD a year ago, he's at war with himself as to whether or not he should take on Kindall's case. However it's not just his health at stake here; it's Kyle freedom as well. Why would anyone still insist they aren't guilty even when everyone and everything else suggests otherwise? Summary  "Elin Prescott's dream to be a top fashion designer is finally within her reach - then Marissa Banks enters her life. Snared by her first taste of passion, Elin is consumed by desire for more.
Now, instead of pursuing her dreams, she chases the addiction that is Marissa. Her life spirals out of control until she meets Doctor Aimee Sullivan, who understands all too well what Elin is going through. Can Elin let Aimee into her heart? Or will her addiction keep her enthralled with Marissa? This story explores first love, intense passion, manipulation of emotions, and the gentleness of real love and true romance"--Back cover.

Series Perspectives (Auckland, N.Z.); episode 1.
Summary "For this first episode, the Perspectives team headed off for a night at the theatre, seeing the audio-described performance of 'Matilda: The Musical' at the Civic in Auckland. Chantelle talks about the challenges of navigating a busy theatre. We also talk about what goes into an audio-described performance with Nicola Owen a professional audio-describer from Audio Described Aotearoa, who worked on the audio description for 'Matilda'. Nicola also let us have a sneaky snippet of the audio description of another production. The audio-described performance of Matilda at the Civic, presented by Auckland Live, was the first performance of Matilda to include a touch tour - you can hear Chantelle, Rachel and Ellen from the Perspectives team talk about what they got out of this"--Publisher's website.

Summary  "Blur Circles refers to a photographic phenomenon in which hazy, unfocused rings appear in an image caused by cones of light on the lens. Musically, this is realised through juxtaposing dense textures (polyphony) with moments of relative textural clarity (melody) as if musical ideas shift in and out of focus. Blur Circles is dedicated to my friend and teacher Jack Body."--P [1].

Summary:
"An elusive serial killer. A police officer living on borrowed time. An unexpected twist that threatens to blow everything apart. Whitney Walker is in trouble. She's been threatened with demotion if she screws up another case. So, when a killer starts murdering female students at the local university, she knows this is her chance to redeem herself. Forensic psychologist, Dr Georgina Cavendish, has spent her life inside the university walls, but when one of her students is murdered and she's the one to find the body, she resolves to step out from behind her text books and put her skills to the test. While the killer leads the police on a game of cat and mouse, Walker and Cavendish form an uneasy alliance. But will it be too late to stop the worst serial killer in Lenchester's history?"--Back cover of print version.

Summary
"Priory McAllister has fought off boardroom sharks, handled high-pressure jobs, and thought she'd seen it all. Ready to live the suburban life she found her dream home and can’t wait to move in. Unknown to Priory, the house is inhabited by two ghosts, Rhee and a mischievous Dylan who call Priory's new house their home and have since 1935. They have no intention of leaving after all, she couldn't be harder to get rid of than the others who tried to encroach on their home. Jacey Ryder, Priory's long-suffering secretary has agreed to help her boss move... the things you do for your crush! Now, she gets to play referee between her boss and a bossy ghost, as each side try to lay claim to the house. What can she do when an unstoppable force, (her boss) meets an immovable object, (the ghost) besides hope for a peaceful solution? They are like two peas in a pod - two angry, stubborn peas in a pod"--Back of the book.

Summary "A year ago, an unknown assailant heart-hexed Cassidy. Covertly, she’s used her witches’ powers seeking a counter spell, but to no avail. The year of enforced celibacy is grating on her sexual nerves. Cassidy’s situation worsens when she falls for the very sexy warlock, Hunter Rutherford, but must keep him at arm’s length. Sparks fly when they kiss, but these sparks are the type that burn. The only way they’ll be able to consummate their relationship is by finding who cast the hex and convincing them to remove the curse"--Back of print version

Summary "'I wish I wasn’t the weirdest sixteen-year-old guy in the universe.' Felix would love to have been a number. Numbers have superpowers and they’re safe, any problem they might throw up can be solved. 'If I were a five, I’d be shaped like a pentagon ... there’d be magic in my walls, safety in my angles.' People are so much harder to cope with. At least that's how it seems until Bailey Hunter arrives at school. Bailey has a stutter, but he can make friends and he's good at judo. And Bailey seems to have noticed Felix: 'Felix keeps to himself mostly, but there's something about him that keeps drawing me in.' Both boys find they’re living in a world where they can't trust anyone, but might they be able to trust each other, with their secrets, their differences, themselves?"--Publisher information.

Summary: "Nine-year-old Katerina doesn't feel like she fits into the world. Until the day she and her older brother Joshua are transported to a magical garden. It doesn't take them long to realize this isn't like their mother's garden. For a start Mom's garden doesn't have a panther or gorilla wandering through the carrots. Suddenly Katerina will find out just how special she really is, as she fights to save her new friends from hunters, zoologists, and singing rats. Because in the end, they are the last best hope for the future"--Back cover of print version.

Summary: "A mystery box. A dead child. Who holds the key to unlocking it all? Jess Warren's life has more dramas than Netflix, but her dreams of becoming an actress are over when her family returns to Scotland to live. Stuck in the back sticks of Aberdeenshire, Jess finds herself stranded in a creepy loft with her deceptively demure cousin, Ella Lockheart. After a heart-pounding paranormal encounter, Jess is adamant she wants nothing more to do with what they've found. But Ella, used to getting what she wants, is not about to give up on Jess so easily. If Jess has any hope of fitting in to her new life in the country, then she'll have to accept a different kind of drama; one that makes no sense, is completely unpredictable, and may not come with the happy ending she longs for. Together, the girls must use every key they have to unlock their family's hidden secrets and see if the Lockheart family really is as unbreakable as their parents believe"--Back cover of print version.

Te Puna Mātauranga o Aotearoa
"Chantelle and Mike both got to play with some new (or new to them) technology over the Christmas break- in this section they talk about how they've found the different tech. They're not giving the absolute recommendations, just sharing their experiences. Tech covered includes: Google Home, Google ChromeCast Audio, Netflix– which includes audio-described programmes, Google Chromecast, Samsung UA 50 MU 60-100 TV. Maria talks about a special accessible holiday experience. She and her family went on a pacific cruise. Here she talks about what it was like, and how the cruise ship staff supported her and her daughter, who also has low vision, to have an enjoyable trip. Kuini Peehikuru is a Blind Foundation staff member, but recently she began to lose her vision and is now a client as well. She talks with Mike and Chantelle about what it has been like for her to experience vision loss, the challenges, the changes, and the unexpected positives. Mike and Chantelle talk about why they don't make New Year's resolutions, and their alternative ways of setting goals for themselves- as well as how they go about achieving them"--Publisher's website.

Summary: "California, 1868. The three Russell brothers have been separated by time and tragedy. When they reunite in a proverbial promised land, they must heal the past and build a future for themselves and the strong women who hold their hearts. But the rough Western frontier breeds more danger than delight… The Russell clan find themselves at the center of mysterious deaths and murderous adversaries. Unwilling to let corruption ruin their dreams of a prosperous future, can they solve these deadly crimes before they’re fitted for their own pine boxes?"

Summary "Julie Woods (aka That Blind Woman) visited the show for an interview. She’s a keen cook, and in this episode Julie talks Christmas cooking with Chantelle. Julie tells a bit of her story, how getting back into the kitchen helped her get her confidence back after starting to go blind. They talk about the challenges and adaptations involved in cooking blind- including some funny accidents and misadventures. She also shares a delicious secret truffle recipe perfect for the festive season ... Nicola from our Equipment Solutions team takes Mike through gift ideas for family and friends who are blind or low vision ... Geraldine from the library joins Chantelle and Mike in the studio to share her top three recommendations- two she’s read and loved, and one she’s planning to read this summer ... Karen from Community and Life Enrichment talks about volunteer help available for Christmas shopping ... We round things up with a Christmas Q&A with Ellen, who shares questions people have sent in from around New Zealand about what it’s like to be blind or low vision at Christmas"--Publisher's website.

Summary "This family saga moves on to the next generation. It is a tragic story of how life could go so wrong for one as wealthy as Lord Charles Rothchild. All the Irish relatives from the estate were gone: his mother, his half-brothers and his sister. Just one element remained, his Irish genes. His succession of wives hid his darkest secret. His only surviving son carried the ‘Irish curse’ so was banished from his estate. Tragedy after tragedy plagued this wealthy estate owner. Was penance about to be served?" -- Back cover.

Summary "Share Plastic showcases a few of the products and designs from the numerous Precious Plastic projects around the world. The aim of this book is to inspire people with a glimpse of the beauty that can come from waste, and help people see the potential and opportunities within their own lives and communities. We understand that the products are only one aspect of this initiative and have intentionally left out details of the processes and techniques. Treat this as an art exhibition rather than an in depth guide to plastic recycling. The projects curated in this book have been selected to show a wide range of products and artworks. Each was contacted through Instagram and everyone that was invited to be involved said yes - a perfect example of how open and accessible these initiatives are"--Publisher information.

"Last summer during the dreaded hunting season, Kyawah lost his tail, his magic, and his value as a silvertail. Now the hunters have returned and he's terrified. Especially when he recognizes Samsa, the very hunter that cut off his tail and ruined his life. But when the pack becomes trapped in the foothills with no escape, Kyawah realises he's their only hope. Without a tail, he's worthless to the hunters and their wizard masters. If he can escape, he can find help for his pack. All he has to do is locate the Wise One and retrieve the Deep Magic. Which would be hard enough even if he still had the magical tail sense his kind are born with. But what choice does he have? If he doesn't take the risk, his pack will lose everything. And because Kyawah knows exactly how that feels, he can't let it happen"—Publisher's website.

Summary  "The Climate Challenge is run by a group of young leaders aged 15-20 from across the country who are passionate about empowering our peers to take action on climate change. We were founded by a group of high school students in 2015 with the support of Generation Zero and have since grown into a national organisation. The Climate Challenge is nonpartisan, recognising that climate progress needs the support of all political parties not just a few. We work hard to help young people connect with political leaders from across parliament to both make their own informed political opinions and be heard by New Zealand’s leaders"--about page.

Summary The New Zealand Government established this Welfare Expert Advisory Group to undertake a broad-ranging review of the welfare system and advise the Government on how to better meet the needs of New Zealanders now and in the future. This report presents the Welfare Expert Advisory Group's findings and recommendations. It finds the current system is no longer fit for purpose and needs fundamental change - to move beyond a 'safety net to 'whakamana tangata' - restoring dignity to people so they can participate meaningfully with their families and communities. Sections include: Listening to New Zealanders: what we heard; Reforming social security; Delivering for Maori; Restoring trust with people using the welfare system; Achieving security requires adequate income; Alleviating the housing conundrum; Improving access to employment and labour market support; Creating a fairer deal for people with health conditions or disabilities and carers; Strengthening community organisations and volunteering; Improving outcomes requires a cross-government response; and Treasury modelling of tax and welfare changes. The report is supported by separately published evidence briefs and background papers.

Summary: "This research presentation explains to show how the historical process, (in which what most New Zealanders think they know), is a result of the dominant Pākehā and Government discourse. This dominant discourse is contrasted with the traditional Māori voice which has been sidelined and then culturally erased by those of the dominant discourse."

Physical Details: 1 online resource : illustration
Summary: "When seventeen-year-old Kyle Kindall is imprisoned despite pleading not guilty, the judge – suspecting Kyle may have been poorly represented at the trial – assigns a trusted friend to find more evidence that may support Kyle’s story. But Yuuki Takahashi is already dealing with a lot of stress in his life when Timothy, the judge, approaches him. After an incident rendered him with PTSD a year ago, he’s at war with himself as to whether or not he should take on Kindall’s case. However it’s not just his health at stake here; it’s Kyle freedom as well. Why would anyone still insist they aren’t guilty even when everyone and everything else suggests otherwise? Yuuki can’t help but feel that something isn’t right and he’s determined to find out why"—Back cover of print version.

Summary  "A century since the departure of the Gods, the Three Nations are now united beneath the Tsar. Magic has been outlawed, its power too dangerous to remain unchecked. All Magickers must surrender themselves to the crown, or face imprisonment and death. Alana's mundane life has just been torn apart by the emergence of her brother's magic. Now they must leave behind everything they've ever known and flee - before the Tsar's Stalkers pick up their trail. Tasked with hunting down renegade Magickers, the merciless hunters will stop at nothing to bring them before the Tsar's judgement. As the noose closes around Alana and her brother, disgraced hero Devon finds himself at odds with the law when he picks a fight with the wrong man. The former warrior has set aside his weapons, but now, caught between the renegades and the Stalkers, he is forced to pick a side - the empire, or the innocent"--Back of print version.
