The New Zealand National Bibliography (NZNB) contains catalogue records for the New Zealand imprint. It is produced monthly (12 issues per year). The National Library of New Zealand has responsibility for producing the Bibliography. Most of the material listed is received by the National Library of New Zealand under the Legal Deposit provisions of the National Library Act 1965, Section 30A, amended 1994. It includes New Zealand and Tokelau books, serials, newspapers, music, maps, videos, sound recordings, kits, and pictures. Items are included after they have been received at the National Library. The catalogue records produced meet international standards.

This document contains all the items that have been catalogued during the month of November 2018. The items are grouped under the main subject schedules of the Dewey Decimal Classification system. Within each subject grouping the items are arranged alphabetically by title.

Summary: "What is the future of curatorship? Is there a vision for an ideal model, a curatopia, whether in the form of a utopia or dystopia? Or is there a plurality of approaches, amounting to a curatorial heterotopia? This pioneering volume addresses these questions by considering the current state of curatorship. It reviews the different models and approaches operating in museums, galleries and cultural organisations around the world and discusses emerging concerns, challenges and opportunities. The collection explores the ways in which the mutual, asymmetrical relations underpinning global, scientific entanglements of the past can be transformed into more reciprocal, symmetrical forms of cross-cultural curatorship in the present, arguing that this is the most effective way for curatorial practice to remain meaningful. International in scope, the volume covers three regions: Europe, North America and the Pacific"--Publisher's website.

Summary: "In 2017, Ministry of Health figures showed that one in five New Zealanders sought help for a diagnosed mood or anxiety disorder, and these figures are growing. Headlands: New Stories of Anxiety tells the real, messy story behind these statistics -- what anxiety feels like, what causes it, what helps and what doesn't. These accounts are sometimes raw and confronting, but they all seek to share experiences, remove stigma, offer help or simply shine a light on what anxiety is. The stories in Headlands are told by people from all walks of life: poets, novelists, and journalists, musicians, social workers, and health professionals, and includes..."
new work from Ashleigh Young, Tusiata Avia, Danyl McLauchlan, Selina Tusitala Marsh, Hinemoana Baker and Kirsten McDougall. Edited by journalist Naomi Arnold, Headlands shows that some communities have better access to mental health services than others and it underscores the importance for greater understanding of the condition across society. It is not a book of solutions nor a self-help guide. Instead, it has been put together for all individuals and whānau affected by anxiety. It's also for those who are still suffering in silence, in the hope they will see themselves reflected in these pages and know that they are not alone"--Back cover.

Summary  "The Salvation Army has now been around for more than one hundred and fifty years, having celebrated its sesquicentennial in 2015 with an International Congress in London. Over the years both the Army and the world in which it appeared have changed beyond recognition. This is a good time for the movement to stop and look back—not just to celebrate, but to see where it is today. The Army has not evolved in isolation from the world. Bringing its own history with it, it nevertheless belongs to the twenty-first century world as much as William Booth’s little East End Mission belonged to nineteenth-century London. This book attempts to explore the interaction between mission and world as it has impacted the Army’s beliefs and practices as well as the place it now occupies in the wider world. This critical and analytical study may also be of interest to those beyond the Army’s ranks who would like to learn more about this remarkable organization" -- Publisher information.

Summary  "I had been a volunteer teacher for years 7-8 in the New Zealand public school system of 'Bible in School', but there was a move, as our country became more secular and multicultural, to eliminate Christian teaching from our schools. I had concentrated on the wisdom literature and parables of the Bible and applied it to the everyday life of my students – basically, situation ethics with the Christian Bible, as well as reason as the authority. On going back to university for more academic qualifications in this field, I discovered that there was no likelihood of any ethical system based on the teachings of any particular religion being universally accepted, so I concentrated on finding ethical principles that were acceptable to the main religions and used them as the basis for consistent ethical reasoning in a multi-cultural society. My book examines these ethical principles and applies them to everyday situations. It starts with a short biography – an examination of my own background and my qualifications for writing such a book"--Back cover.

Summary: "The greatest success story of New Zealand’s modern environmental movement were the pivotal campaigns between 1970 and 2000 that stopped the destruction of our native forest. They began with the battle to save Lake Manapōuri from being flooded, and by 2000, all the significant lowland forest in South Westland had become part of a World Heritage Area, the beech forests of the West Coast had largely been protected, and Paparoa National Park had been established. As well, the magnificent podocarp forests of Pureora and Whirinaki in the central North Island had been saved from the chainsaw, and many other smaller areas of forest had been included into the conservation estate. Fight for the Forests tells this story, of how a group of young activists became aware of government plans to mill vast areas of West Coast beech forest and began campaigning to halt this. From small beginnings, a much larger..."
movement grew, initially centred on the work of the Native Forests Action Council, and eventually Forest and Bird and Native Forest Action. These committed and extremely capable conservationists tapped into a widespread upwelling of public support and changed the course of environmental history in this country"--Inside front flap.

Summary  "The text has been a "rapid response" and compact reference guide to the new health and safety law which came into force in April 2016 (HSW Act). The HSW Act represented a major re-write of New Zealand's current Health and Safety in Employment Act 1992 (1992 Act). Accordingly, a need it filled in the market was to help practitioners up-skill and familiarise themselves with the new law. It was one of the first reference books on the HSW Act. The book's primary aim is to continue to educate practitioners and corporates on the HSW Act and the duties it imposes, and incorporate new case law since the first edition published in 2016"--Publisher information.

ISBN  9780947492533

Summary  "Kim Workman grew up in the Wairarapa, son of a Pākehā mother and Māori father. His whakapapa comes from Ngāti Kahungunu and Rangitāne; Pāpāwai Marae near Greytown is the place to which he always returns. Jazz musician, policeman, public servant, prison manager, prominent campaigner for restorative justice, Kim's life is full of passion and spirit, research and writing, action and commitment. His childhood was shaped by life in a country town, by family and Māori community, somewhat by school and rather more by playing jazz. Journey towards justice is an eloquent account of a life that is at once ordinary and exceptional, told with warmth and honesty. There are dark moments and hilarious ones, achievements and failures. Above all, there is love, compassion, vision, and a profound determination to bring justice to all"--Publisher information.

Summary  "This is a colourful tale of English-born rogue, Charles Wells Banks, who emigrated to the United States at 14 years of age. He fought in, and was wounded during, the American Civil War, and was in New Orleans during the emancipation of slavery in the aftermath of the war. He moved to San Francisco to take up employment in the finance department of the renowned Wells Fargo and Company. Banks married, and became well-to-do, and a person of status socially, with strong interests in the field of science. He owned property and other investments, including a brothel. Banks had a penchant for opportunistic engagements with the opposite sex, and was well known as a philanderer, which was eventually to lead to his undoing. He embezzled a large sum of money before absconding from the United States to the Cook Islands, in the South Pacific and, he hoped, anonymity. What was not known at the time, was that he had become obsessed by the beauty, and exotic appearance, of a Polynesian princess, who had been sent to San Francisco by royal personages to seek a cure for consumption. Using a false identity, under the assumed name of John Scard, he travelled to the small island of Aitutaki in the Cook Islands. To his great dismay the chief, who was also the father of the girl, forbade him to marry the princess, because he was a commoner. Aituan legend has it that Princess Mokoroa, for that was her name, died of a broken heart. Mokoroa's mother, herself a high chief on the island of Rarotonga, thwarted Wells Fargo and Company's detectives from effecting Banks' extradition to America. In retaliation, they placed arrest warrants in surrounding countries, ensuring that the lovelorn Banks was ring-fenced for the rest of his life with the Cook Islands. In effect, he was a virtual prisoner in paradise"--Back cover.

Summary  "This booklet draws together the findings of reports made by the Office of the Ombudsman in its investigations of four New Zealand prisons. Using these reports, No Pride in Prisons researchers provide an account, in plain language, of the ongoing abuse and mistreatment of prisoners. Contextualising this information within historical trends, they also tell the stories of prisoners who have contacted No Pride in Prisons, reminding us how this treatment is a lived reality for far too many people. Together, these accounts demonstrate the disturbing but undeniable existence of widespread torture in New Zealand prisons." -- Back cover.

Series Understanding series (Wellington, N.Z.)
Summary "This textbook provides students with a robust general understanding of the law, including how New Zealand laws are made and amended, and the legal significance and effects of the Treaty of Waitangi. The fundamentals of the law relating to contracts, consumers, torts, property and privacy are also discussed. Examples are used throughout to illustrate and clarify the discussion. This edition features expanded coverage of changes to the law in relation to contract and land, a revised layout that provides a natural progression through the topics and an updated case appendix containing the basic facts, issues and reasons behind the decisions in key and current cases. The LexisNexis Understanding series is renowned for its straightforward layout and logical flow between topics, enabling students to navigate the text with ease. It also includes practical tools and reference materials ideal for revision and exam preparation, such as: clear language; business and real-life examples; diagrams and flow charts; key learnings at the beginning of each chapter; part and chapter summaries; and a comprehensive glossary of key terms"--Publisher information.

Summary "The upper Waitemata River, as far as Riverhead, was an important river road until motor vehicles, operating over good roads, proved a more economic and ... reliable form of transport. Despite a gallant rearguard action from launch operators, the last boat ran in the late 1950s. However, since 1990, launches, daily with the tide, bring tourists and trippers up to Riverhead and its pub. Further down the river, commuter ferries have been reinstated to Hobsonville and Beach Haven, while the West Park Marina, at the Henderson Creek mouth enjoys a frequent service to Auckland. This is their story"--Back cover.

Summary  Low-lying coast is a chronically grim frontline of climate change, socially and economically, and the frontline with the most to lose. New Zealand’s coastline is under attack. When cyclones and king tides coincide, there is double trouble at the sea’s edge with erosion and flooding. Award-winning author Neville Peat investigates the multiple faces of the greatest environmental issue to face New Zealand and other Pacific nations this century: the science of a warming, rising, stormier sea; the risky reality for many low-lying communities; the sluggish response of central and local government; the engineered solutions; and the curly question of insurance. He also addresses the vital question: what should be done and who should pay?

ISBN: 1760633615 paperback
9781760633615 paperback

Physical Details: 256 pages : colour illustrations ; 24 cm
Summary: "Ajax is a working dog trained to sniff out the nests of endangered kea in remote parts of the South Island. His trainer, Corey Mosen, then places cameras in and around the nests to monitor the kea and any predators that might attack them. Together, Corey and Ajax traverse the steep high country throughout the South Island searching out kea nests. Their part in the kea conservation effort is essential and both Ajax and Corey can rightly be called conservation heroes. This heart-warming story describes how Ajax was trained to be one of the very few kea detection dogs in the world and tells of his various escapades in the unpredictable wilds of the back-country, including flying in helicopters, working in blizzards, escaping from angry wasps and sleeping out in the bitter cold. The strong connection between Ajax and Corey has proved vital to their survival and the important work that they do. Ajax is slowing down now and soon his high-country days will be over"--Back cover.

ISBN: 9781775503545 paperback
Projected Publication Date: 1902
Physical Details: pages cm
Summary: "Over the past two decades, New Zealand health care has grown more culturally aware, slowly incorporating practices that better cater to the needs of Māori. Bradford Haami chronicles this health care evolution by telling the story of Amohaere Tangitu, a woman responsible for pioneering change. Spanning Amohaere’s career in health services, this book tells the story of Amohaere’s work to bring cultural perspectives and practices into health care, making treatments culturally safe for Māori and all patients. Amohaere instigated changes in protocols around medical procedures to make them more culturally appropriate in Auckland’s general and children’s hospitals, established family accommodation in the children’s hospital, and implemented cultural processes alongside the hospital treatments. Through her work, Amohaere changed the way staff practised and people healed"—Publisher information.

Summary: "Leonard C. Mitchell and Leonard V. Mitchell - father and son - are two forgotten artistic heroes. Now, critically studied for the first time, their highlight reel runs long. No other family can likely claim such a diverse contribution to New Zealand art. This ... title brings together these amazing New Zealanders and breathes life into their phenomenal artistic legacy. Leonard Cornwall Mitchell (1901-71) has been called the father of New Zealand graphic design; a stand-out illustrator and designer. Some of Mitchell's posters, including his welcoming wahine for the Centennial Exhibition, are graphic masterpieces; the epitome of great design. For Mitchell's first son, Leonard Victor Mitchell (1925-80), art was a natural family fix. At age 31, he won the first Kelliher Art Award and painted one of New Zealand's most ambitious murals (Human Endeavour, installed in Lower Hutt's War Memorial Library). But within four years, despite another Kelliher win and multiple big-name portrait commissions, Mitchell moved to Europe, pushed out by Modernism never to return again. Only now, through privileged access to his own repatriated collection, can Mitchell's art be fully understood"--Welcome page.

Summary: "Encompassing thousands of islands from the remote shores of Rapa Nui to the dense rainforest of Papua New Guinea, Oceania is one of the world's most extraordinary and diverse regions. This book, accompanying the spectacular exhibition at the Royal Academy opening this September, showcases Oceanic art and the subsequent migrations of people, cultures and objects from the Pacific around the world, from the unrivalled navigational feats of the first settlers who traversed the open ocean in wooden canoes to the explorations of Captain Cook 250 years ago. Bringing together the most up-to-date scholarship by experts in the field, this book presents Oceania through the eyes of its own people - artists, poets and photographers - who explore the legacy of the past and the future of a world and way of life threatened by a changing climate. Featuring over 300 colour illustrations, and text from Peter Brunt, Senior Lecturer at Victoria University of Wellington; Nicholas Thomas, Director of the Museum of Archaeology and Anthropology, University of Cambridge; Noelle M.K.Y. Title  Swim : a year of swimming outdoors in New Zealand / Annette Lees.
Author  Lees, Annette, author.
ISBN  9780947503956 paperback
Physical Details  282 pages : illustrations (some colour) ; 23 cm
Summary  "This is a book about New Zealanders, the water, and our old and deep connection between the two: swimming in the outdoors. Every neighbourhood has its river swimming hole, its local beach, its back road to the lake or the climb over a fence to jump in the creek. From Northland to Fiordland, Annette Lees swam outdoors every day for a year in our rivers, lakes, ponds, seas, estuaries, wetlands, springs and outdoor lido pools. Across the country local people shared with her their swimming places and their family swimming stories. It emerges that New Zealanders have a serious passion for water and outdoor swimming. In Swim, Annette has collected our stories, of urban swims, brave swims, night swims, forbidden swims, famous swims, winter swimming, the endurance swimmers of the Depression, and the swimming ANZACs. Threaded through these tales is the diary of her year of swimming"--Back cover.

Summary  New Zealand rugby is a dynasty that transcends all national barriers. As a culture and a model of humility and consistent success, which have led them to three Rugby World Cups, the world of rugby continues to look to the New Zealand model for guidance. Traditionally, the renowned All Blacks and those charged with guiding them have kept their rules of engagement close to their chests. However now, New Zealand Rugby has agreed to open their doors to rugby writer Peter Bills to consider the reasons behind their dominance of the world game in the build-up towards the Lions Series in 2017 and Rugby World Cup 2019 in Japan. Through this book, Peter Bills draws on case studies and interviews of officials, coaches and players, as well as people involved in all elements of rugby right across New Zealand. The Jersey tells an extraordinary story with unprecedented access and insight, and explores the basic requirements and immense challenges required not only to become number one in the world, but remain consistently at the top.

Despite somewhat basic navigational instruments and knowledge compared to today the experience of the officers, seamen and shipping companies resulted in only a very small proportion of ships never finishing their voyages. Title: New Zealand and the sea: historical perspectives / edited by Frances Steel.

Physical Details: 384 pages: illustrations (some colour); 26 cm
Summary: "As a group of islands in the far south-west Pacific Ocean, New Zealand has a history that is steeped in the sea. Its people have encountered the sea in many different ways: along the coast, in port, on ships, beneath the waves, behind a camera, and in the realm of the imagination. While New Zealanders have continually shaped and altered their marine environments, the ocean, too, has shaped their lives. A richly illustrated and multi-disciplinary work encompassing history, marine science, archaeology and visual culture, New Zealand and the Sea explores New Zealand’s varied relationship with the sea, challenging the conventional view that history unfolds on land. Leading and emerging scholars highlight the dynamic, ocean-centred history of these islands and their inhabitants, offering fascinating new perspectives on New Zealand’s pasts"--Publisher information.

There are chancers and entrepreneurs, exploiters and environmentalists, war-makers and lifesavers. From myth and migration to exploitation and industry; from the word of God and the pursuit of money to summer carnivals and the oldest sporting trophy in the world, these stories of ships, sailors and seekers show how our relationship with the sea has been pivotal throughout our history, while the contemporary stories of those whose lives are deeply connected to the ocean bring our maritime past into the now"--Publisher information.

Summary "At dusk on Friday 15 October 1943 the ancient mystical psalm inviting Jews to greet the Shabbat as a bride resonated in the streets of the ghetto: lecha dodi likrat kallah... What came instead, from across the river, was a woman dressed in black, dishevelled, sodden with rain, too overwrought to speak. She has come from Trastevere to deliver a warning of what the dawn will bring"--Back cover.

Summary "Based on the hugely popular Facebook page of the same name, this book describes New Zealand's towns and suburbs from the affluent to the effluent, the rural to the urinal, profiling all the best places not to visit, or heaven forbid, live. Slagging off our towns is as much a national pastime as binge drinking and ball sports. Ever since a Dutch bloke in a sailboat did a drive-by and claimed to have discovered the place, New Zealand have revelled in taking the mickey. The towns and cities reviewed here have been carefully selected using an exacting set of scientific criteria, combined with extensive field research and a healthy sense of humour"--Back cover.

Title Stand for all time : the Marquette sinking and the Nurses' Memorial Chapel / Anna Rogers ; with archival assistance from Cheryl Jenkins.
Author Rogers, Anna, author.
ISBN 9780473450755
Publishing Details Christchurch : Friends of the Nurses' Memorial Chapel, 2018.
©2018
Physical Details 136 pages : colour illustrations ; 25 cm
Summary "Among the thousands of New Zealand deaths in the First World War, the 32 caused by the 1915 sinking of the Marquette were particularly poignant, shocking – and scandalous. Along with a British ammunition column, No. 1 New Zealand Stationary Hospital sailed from Egypt bound for Salonika on 19 October. Not marked as a hospital ship and therefore vulnerable to German U-boat attack, the Marquette was torpedoed in the Aegean Sea on the morning of 23 October. Ten New Zealand nurses and 22 mostly Medical Corps men died. Several more were injured, some severely. And the disaster was entirely avoidable: medical personnel should never have been onboard. The Nurses’ Memorial Chapel in Christchurch honours the three local nurses who were lost in the sinking. It is the country’s first hospital chapel and its only memorial chapel to women who perished in all wars or in the 1918 influenza epidemic. It is thought to be the only purpose-built hospital chapel in the world that commemorates nurses who died in the Great War. Yet this lovely building was twice threatened with demolition in the 20th century and only survived thanks to a passionate, hard-fought campaign. Then came bad damage in the Canterbury earthquakes of 2010–11, followed by superb restoration and reopening in 2018. This vivid, compelling and attractive book tells the story of the Marquette sinking, and the scandal surrounding it, and of the creation of the chapel and the challenges it has faced. It will help to ensure that tragedy of the Marquette, the names of those who died and the special building that honours them, will never be forgotten but stand for all time"--Cover jacket flap.

Summary  "This fascinating biography of Charles Rooking Carter connects the English Victorian world and colonial New Zealand, particularly Wellington and the Wairarapa. It also, through Carter's colonial 'gaze' reflected in his writings, draws out the contrast between the old world of Europe and the new antipodean world. From humble origins in England, Carter emigrated to Wellington in 1850 where he worked as a builder, contractor and architect, becoming a foremost contributor to the town's development of harbour reclamation and public buildings. In the Wairarapa he promoted the settlement of working settlers on the land, was acknowledged for his work by having the town of Carterton named after him, and founded a large estate on the Taratahi Plain. Elected to political office, he served the province of Wellington and the Wairarapa well, assisting in Wellington becoming the capital of New Zealand in 1865. When he returned to London he continued to promote New Zealand's interests. Carter's considerable legacy included his generous philanthropic support of Carterton, in particular the establishment of the Carter Home, his donation of the fabulous Carter Collection of books to the Colonial Museum (Te Papa), and his bequest to the Carter Observatory in Wellington"--Cover flap.

Summary Auckland,1956. Allie Manaia works at Smith and Caughey's department store. It's been two years since the Dunbar and Jones fire, where some of her friends perished, but she still has nightmares. Allie and her husband, Sonny, are desperate for a baby, after losing a child, and Allie's distress at not conceiving again is compounded when those around her seem to have no trouble falling pregnant - even when they shouldn't. Allie's neighbours have recently moved to suburban Auckland. Ana, now a housewife, misses her work on the farm, but she has her hands full, looking after her increasingly forgetful father-in-law. Kathleen Lawson - rich, lonely and bored - is one of Allie's customers at the make-up counter. Kathleen takes a shine to Allie, but when she discovers Allie's husband is Maori, Kathleen's attitude changes. Is she trying to make friends or poison the relationship between Sonny and Allie? Sonny's beautiful younger sister, Polly, is living a vibrant but wayward life as a waitress-model-goodtime girl while leaving her young daughter to be raised by her mother. Then one day Polly disappears.

Summary Ein Viscount auf Brautschau: To refuse him twice would be madness! Viscount Rothersthorpe can't tear his eyes from Lydia Morgan any more than he can calm the raging fury coursing through his veins. Is there no end to the irony? Come to town to find a wife only to be taunted by the past? Furtive glances across the ballroom are not helping to ease Lydia's state of shock, the man who once uttered a marriage proposal as one might remark upon the weather has returned. But when he stuns her with a second outrageous but now wickedly delicious proposal, it is clear that despite the rumors the rake from her past has not reformed! Die Lady und das Biest: Major Nicholas Reynolds returns from the Battle of Waterloo a hero. Once, his rakish good looks ensured he had his pick of beauties, but now his battle-scarred face exiles him from high society. Lady Isabella Knox is horrified by the cruel gossip surrounding Nicholas, but intrigued by the man whose steely glance makes her blush on the outside...and burn deep on the inside. A few stolen kisses later this beauty knows she's lost her head, and her heart.

Militant Tūhoe separatists are active in the area, and with its cloying mist and steep ravines, the forest is a treacherous place in winter. Yet nothing has prepared Taine for the true danger that awaits them. Death incarnate. They backtrack toward civilisation, stalked by a prehistoric creature intent on picking them off one by one. With their weapons ineffective, the babysitting job has become a race for survival. Desperate to bring his charges out alive, Taine draws on ancient tribal wisdom. Will it be enough to stop the nightmare? And when the mist clears, will anyone be left?"--Back cover.

Physical Details: 229 pages ; 23 cm
Summary: "On leave, and out of his head with boredom, NZDF Sergeant Taine McKenna joins biologist Jules Asher on a Conservation Department deer culling expedition to New Zealand's southernmost national park, where soaring peaks give way to valleys gouged from clay and rock, and icy rivers bleed into watery canyons too deep to fathom. Despite covering an area the size of the Serengeti, only eighteen people live in the isolated region, so it's a surprise when the hunters stumble on the nation’s Tūrehu tribe, becoming some of only a handful to ever encounter the elusive ghost people. But a band of mercenaries saw them first, and, hell-bent on exploiting the tribes’ survivors, they’re prepared to kill anyone who gets in their way. A soldier, McKenna is duty-bound to protect all New Zealanders, but after centuries of persecution will the Tūrehu allow him to help them? Besides, there is something else lurking in the sounds, and it has its own agenda. When the waters clear, will anyone be allowed to leave?"--Back cover.

<td>&quot;Sylvalla escapes Avondale castle and the life of a princess, in search of the adventure she's always wanted. Once found, adventure bites back. Fortunately, she is not alone. Unfortunately, her new-found companions are less than heroic. Jonathan would rather make money. Dirk would rather live a long and happy life. And at 150, old Capro would rather stop gallivanting, and harangue unsuspecting wizardry students about his glory days over a nice cup of tea. Quest has everything: heroes, monsters, chases, escapes and a complete lack of true love&quot;--Back cover.</td>

Summary Nayna Sharma agreed to an arranged marriage in the hope it would heal the fractures in her beloved family....only to realize too late that a traditional marriage is her personal nightmare. Panicked, she throws caution to the winds, puts on the tiniest dress she can find, and ends up in the arms of a tall, rough-edged hunk of a man who has abs of steel - and whom she manages to mortally insult between one kiss and the next. Abandoned as a child, then adopted into a loving family, Raj Sen believes in tradition, in continuity. Some might call him stiff and old-fashioned, but he knows what he wants - and it's a life defined by rules....yet he can't stop thinking about the infuriating and sexy woman who kissed him in the moonlight then disappeared. When his parents spring an introduction on him, the last woman he expects is her. Beautiful. Maddening. A rule breaker in the making. He's all wrong for her. She's all wrong for him. And love is about to make rebels of them both.

Summary  " In the cold and distant land of Patagonia, a starving stray cat suddenly finds herself aboard a small sailing boat. Chosen by the captain to become ship's cat, she is named Yanmara. Before she knows it, Yanmara is out at sea and crossing the vast Pacific Ocean to New Zealand. In her new role she must find her sea legs fast and learn the ropes. Only then can she sit the test to officially become ship's cat. But the boat is so small, the ocean so big and the captain is almost always cranky. Sea creatures of the deep frighten Yanmara as she encounters the spectacular, strange, silly and scary. Some follow, some stow away, one tries to drown her and another nearly capsizes the whole boat. Then one morning ... the mighty Pacific is in a very bad mood, just when New Zealand is so close. The ocean screams and rages day and night, and their boat is tossed around like a rubber duck. Can Yanmara survive the storm to fulfill her destiny? Sail along on her adventures and find out"--Back cover.

Summary: Set in two parts, The relapse into barbarism and Wild England, Jefferies tells of life in England following an unspecified catastrophe which has decimated the population and forced the survivors into subsistence living. Summary  Miserly, uncaring Ebenezer Scrooge must encounter three apparitions due to the misdeeds of his life and lack of appreciation for what he has. Instead of valuing his family, or anyone else for that matter, or caring that it is Christmas time, Scrooge continues with his old ways. However, after meeting the Ghost of Christmas Past, Ghost of Christmas Present and the Ghost of Christmas Future, he is forced to reconcile his conscience with this morals and behaviour and decide what kind of man he wants to be and what sort of legacy he wishes to leave when this life is done.

Summary: "A true story about a young lad who grew up in Blenheim in New Zealand during the late 1940s and early 50s and developed an insatiable passion for flying. He travelled to England, became a pilot in the Royal Air Force, and was soon involved in the United Kingdom's nuclear testing program in the Pacific. This took him around the world and then, in just a few short years, he found himself on the front line of the cold war in Germany"--Introduction.

"Sarah Morgan Dawson was a young woman of 20 living in Baton Rouge, Louisiana, when she began this diary. The American Civil War was raging. Though at first the conflict seemed far away, it would eventually be brought home to her in very personal terms. Her family's loyalties were divided. Sarah's father, though he disapproved of secession, declared for the South when Louisiana left the Union. Her eldest brother, who became the family patriarch when his father died in 1861, was for the Union, though he refused to take up arms against his fellow Southerners. The family owned slaves, some of whom are mentioned by name in this diary. Sarah was devoted to the Confederacy, and watched with sorrow and indignation its demise. Her diary, written from March 1862 to June 1865, discourses on topics as normal as household routines and romantic intrigues to those as unsettling as concern for her brothers who fought in the war. Largely self-taught, she describes in clear and inviting prose, fleeing Baton Rouge during a bombardment, suffering a painful spinal injury when adequate medical help was unavailable, the looting of her home by Northern soldiers, the humiliation of life under General Butler in New Orleans, and dealing with privations and displacement in a region torn by war. She was a child of her time and place. Her inability to see the cruelty and indignity of slavery grates harshly on the modern ear. Regardless of how one feels about the Lost Cause, however, Sarah's diary provides a valuable historical perspective on life behind the lines of this bitter conflict."--LibraVox website.

Framework for change : reducing children and young people's experience of violence. Report #1, Framework description / report to ACC ; Dr David Rees, Angela Boswell, Dr Sarah Appleton-Dyer.

Author: Rees, D. (David), author.

Summary: This document presents the findings from the analysis of the literature, subject matter interviews and a workshop in a Framework for Change. The report is supported by figures, tables and questions that can be used to guide ACC and other key players in making investment decisions to reduce children and young people’s experience of violence. Following this introduction, the report defines the scope of the Framework and provides a brief understanding of the current context and evidence which informed the design of the Framework. The Framework itself is then prefaced by an overview which leads into two key components: spheres of influence and drivers of change, and a systems theory of change. Considerations for targeting and evaluation are also presented. Finally, the implications of utilising the Framework for programme and system design are shared.

Summary "The Seventh Kingdom is surrounded by the Lands of Earth, Fire, Water and Wind. All but Earth have rulers. When a new enemy threatens all of the Lands, it is imperative to find the last ruler of Earth. Without this ruler, all factions could lose their lives and land to the dark evil that is threatening them. Morgayne, ruler in Land of Water and Ventus, ruler of Land of Wind, form a tentative yet skeptical relationship. Each must rid themselves of their preconceived notions to make a working relationship—everything depends on them. Their connection is deeper than either realizes and the uncertain link transforms into a close bond as they search for the last Land of Earth ruler. Will that tie survive the battles ahead? Will they allow or deny their feelings in this fantasy adventure that will have you urging them on to victory on all fronts"--Back of the book.

Summary  This report, commissioned by Auckland Council and led by the Innovation Unit, gathered data on people's lived experience of housing instability to inform the development of a homelessness plan for Tāmaki Makaurau. This included the triggers that cause people to become homeless, the barriers they face in seeking support and finding suitable housing, and what enables them to then secure stable housing. Auckland Council also wanted to understand the impact of their experience of unstable housing. To narrow the scope of the research, Auckland Council asked the Innovation Unit to focus specially on single women with children who have experienced homelessness, or intense housing insecurity. This is because single mothers and their children are known to be particularly vulnerable to homelessness and if we can get solutions right for this group of people, there would be learnings for addressing the needs of other vulnerable groups too.

His whakapapa comes from Ngāti Kahungunu and Rangitāne; Pāpāwai Marae near Greytown is the place to which he always returns. Jazz musician, policeman, public servant, prison manager, prominent campaigner for restorative justice, Kim's life is full of passion and spirit, research and writing, action and commitment. His childhood was shaped by life in a country town, by family and Māori community, somewhat by school and rather more by playing jazz. Journey towards justice is an eloquent account of a life that is at once ordinary and exceptional, told with warmth and honesty. There are dark moments and hilarious ones, achievements and failures. Above all, there is love, compassion, vision, and a profound determination to bring justice to all"--Publisher information.

Title Mana wahine: building an understanding of women's experience of homelessness in the Auckland city centre / commissioned by Te Miringa Trust; produced by Lifewise.

Publishing Details [Auckland]: Lifewise, [2018?]

Physical Details 1 online resource: colour illustrations

Summary "Homelessness is an issue that is highly gender bound in most western countries (Bukowski 2009). While there is some information available relating to the experiences of homelessness in the city centre more generally, there is little that dives deep into the experience of women. This document is designed to highlight the unique and particular experiences and needs of women who find themselves homeless in the Auckland city centre. The project team carried out a co-design process from the understand phase through to synthesis/define phase. Co-design reflects a fundamental change to traditional service or programme design. Rather than service providers designing services or programmes in isolation, the co-design approach enables a wider range of people, including those that you are designing for, to make creative contributions in both the formulation and solution of a problem. To do this, a project team was formed that included the women with lived experience of homelessness"—Page 5.

Summary 'Everyone lives a messy, unusual life. There is no normal. The sooner our politics understands this, the better off we will all be.' Morgan Godfery is one of New Zealand’s most energising young thinkers. In just a few years he has become a leading voice in the country’s social and political life. Starting out under his own banner, 'Māui Street', his writing now appears across national and international publications. This curated selection brings together the best of Godfery’s writing. Read together, the collection charts the emergence of a significant New Zealand voice.‘—Publisher information.

Summary "When Ava Green turns twenty-eight, she is told it will be her last birthday. The cancer she fought three years ago is back, and this time it's going to beat her. But Ava is not going to let cancer define her last, precious months- she wants the wedding of her dreams. She doesn't have a groom, she doesn't have much money, and she definitely doesn't have much time... but none of that matters. She's going to go it alone.As her friends and family rally to help deliver her dying wish for a party to end all parties, the media get involved and her story spreads around the country. But when photographer James Gable arrives, Ava's plans are disrupted. Suddenly all the emotions she'd packed away are on her doorstep. Now she has to decide - is she brave enough to let love in and strong enough to say goodbye?"--Publisher information.

At dusk on Friday 15 October 1943 the ancient mystical psalm inviting Jews to greet the Shabbat as a bride resonated in the streets of the ghetto: lecha dodi likrat kallah... What came instead, from across the river, was a woman dressed in black, dishevelled, sodden with rain, too overwrought to speak. She has come from Trastevere to deliver a warning of what the dawn will bring"--Back cover.

Summary: "She's the Grinch who hates Christmas. He's determined to make this the best holiday season ever. What they need is a Christmas miracle. What they have is a match made in candy cane hell... Santa Claus may be coming to town, but barmaid Faith Langley is making sure he doesn't step foot inside her pub. After a spate of bad festive holidays she has canceled Christmas. And that goes for her love life too. Faith's had enough of doomed relationships, she's off the market. Forever. New guy in town property developer Blake Delacourte is hell-bent on making a good impression with the Portobello locals, but he doesn't expect the welcome to be the same as the weather; distinctly frosty. Particularly from the fiery barmaid who seems terminally allergic to having a good time. But when Faith and Blake are forced to work together to make Christmas dreams come true for a local kindergarten, things start to heat up between them. A kiss under the mistletoe is only the start of the thaw... This Christmas, can Blake melt Faith's heart and show her that miracles can happen...?"--About the book.

Summary: "Thirty years ago Marilyn Waring’s groundbreaking book Counting for Nothing was released. Waring explained, through meticulous economic analysis, how the success of the global economy rests on women’s unpaid work. Counting for Nothing became a phenomenon: it was read and discussed around the world, and even made into a film. Today, many people hope that the shift to a wellbeing approach – moving beyond narrow economic indicators when assessing New Zealand’s progress – will mean women’s work is finally valued fairly. But what does Marilyn Waring make of it? This short book provides an essential assessment of wellbeing economics from a leading feminist scholar"--Publisher information.

Series Understanding series (Wellington, N.Z.)

Summary "This textbook provides students with a robust general understanding of the law, including how New Zealand laws are made and amended, and the legal significance and effects of the Treaty of Waitangi. The fundamentals of the law relating to contracts, consumers, torts, property and privacy are also discussed. Examples are used throughout to illustrate and clarify the discussion. This edition features expanded coverage of changes to the law in relation to contract and land, a revised layout that provides a natural progression through the topics and an updated case appendix containing the basic facts, issues and reasons behind the decisions in key and current cases. The LexisNexis Understanding series is renowned for its straightforward layout and logical flow between topics, enabling students to navigate the text with ease. It also includes practical tools and reference materials ideal for revision and exam preparation, such as: clear language; business and real-life examples; diagrams and flow charts; key learnings at the beginning of each chapter; part and chapter summaries; and a comprehensive glossary of key terms"--Publisher information.

Posing as excellent tailors and weavers, the con-man promise to make for the king excellent royal attire. However, while things are not as they seem, matters are very much exactly as they seem. In fact matters are clear, even transparent, to all but the king himself ... until a youth teaches the emperor a lesson that makes him as wise as always believed himself to be.

Summary "What is it like to live at least to three times as long as the average human? Jenna has just passed her one hundred and fiftieth birthday and looks to be just over thirty, and she is, so far as she knows, unique. She lives in isolation from the rest of the human race in an inaccessible and protected location known simply as "her home". Although she is physically isolated, she still communicates extensively with other people. She has a few loyal staff in her retreat, and a number of others around the world. She also talks to the leaders of the nations and other powerful people around the world by videoconference and videophone almost every day. As time passes, she considers the reasons for her isolation, and wonders whether those reasons still apply. One of her friends draws her attention to the work of a young reporter, George, who has written a series of articles about her impact on trends and fashions. In an amazing break with tradition, she decides to invite George to visit her at "her home" to discuss his articles with her, little knowing what immense interest this will generate in the general population, and the effect that it will have on George's life. He will be the first person to be invited to visit her in over one hundred years!"--Prologue : the last beautiful woman.

The oval portrait / Edgar Allan Poe ; narrated by P.D. Wright.

The narrator, wounded and delirious, has sought shelter in an old mansion with his valet. Taking an "antique" apartment to stay in, our narrator slowly begins to contemplate the paintings adorning the walls of the room. A small book he had found on the pillow of the bed, which contains information about the paintings. Around midnight, he adjusts the candelabrum in the room and his eye catches a portrait he hadn't previously noticed, in an oval-shaped frame, depicting a young woman. The narrator is captivated by this portrait and he becomes increasingly drawn in to the painting, its subject and the story behind it, until finally he is unable to distinguish art from reality.

Summary He Waipuna Koropupu is a Kaupapa Māori research project that aimed to address the silence that exists in relation to Taranaki suicide. Qualitative in nature, the data collected for analysis obtained from Taranaki whānau through participant interviews and hapū hui. Whānau experiences of suicide, behavioural patterns, warning signs and cultural and social systems were explored. A webinar in which Ngaropi Cmeron presented the findings of Taranaki-based research into whanau experiences of suicide, behavioural patterns, warning signs and cultural and social systems and how these can inform a Māori-specific intervention is also available from the website.
