

School library suppliers

This list contains suggestions based on the experience of the school library community in New Zealand Aotearoa and is not intended to be comprehensive. You may find other local suppliers in addition to those on this list. Your school library colleagues will also be a source of useful information and can be contacted via the school library email listserv (for instructions on joining, go to slanza.org.nz/mailling-lists).

Barcode labels

Library systems often include the option of generating your own barcodes as part of cataloguing. Check with your system supplier.

Barcode readers / scanners

Tips when selecting a barcode scanner:

- Wireless is an option—it allows for distance work, but check the cost
- If you have a USB3 port on your host device (computer) some wireless scanners can draw sufficient power from your computer so that they don't require a separate power supply of their own
- Wireless alternative—use a mobile device such as a smartphone or tablet as a barcode scanner, with compatible scanning app installed. Note that apps will use the device's camera with auto-focus, so this will be slower than using a barcode scanner or data collector. Free apps are available—search the App store for iOS devices and Google Play store for Android devices. Look for barcode/inventory apps that allow you to scan to a file (some will do continuous scanning), save and send so that the data can be imported into your ILS if you are using them for stocktake. Choose apps that have a good rating.
 - e.g. LoMag barcode scanner for Android (save file to Excel format, then email)—does continuous scanning automatically.
 - e.g. Bar-code reader for iOS (iPhone / iPad)—scan and send list of barcodes by email. Turn on “Continuous mode” for more speed.

Signage

Includes shelf blocks, shelving signs, vinyl letters and numbers, and colour coded shelf labelling. Your local signage companies may also be able to provide bespoke signage. School library colleagues may be able to provide recommendations through the school-libs listserv (for instructions go to slanza.org.nz/mailling-lists).

For advice on appropriate signage in te reo Māori, go to our website or consult with your local iwi about options. Other sources of signage in te reo Māori include:

- Te Rōpū Whakahau www.trw.org.nz/He-Puna/index.htm
 - Links to He puna taunaki : te reo Māori in libraries : a Māori language resource for librarians by Hinureina Mangan and Chris Szekely. Includes a pronunciation guide, guidance on how to choose the right words and list of bilingual signs for libraries.

- Māori Language Commission www.tetaurawhiri.govt.nz/our-work/signage-list
 - Lists common, non-library related words for signage
- Ministry of Education education.govt.nz/school/property/state-schools/design-standards/bilingual-signs
 - List of words for rooms, buildings and services
